DUBLIN WEEKLY TRADE REPORT.

The industrial situation generally remains in much the same dull and uncertain state as previously, and although there is so far no real development in main branches of production, a better tone is looked forward to in the near future in certain departments, notably woollen and cotton goods. Prices for former are hardening a good deal in reflex of dearer and buoyant disposition of markets for Colonial wools. Linen industry is also more promising, but the scarcity of flax both at home and on the Continent is causing some apprehension. Cattle, sheep, and lambs were discounted on our market on Thursday. Flower market 1/- per sack lower.

Avon Tyres "go farther and fare better" because they contain nothing but material of the very highest grade. Casings of heavy Egyptian duck, frictioned with special rubber of extraordinary tensile strength, and tough treads of exceptional thickness, are the main causes of the consistently high records continually achieved.

MULLINGAR.

SILVO'S EASY WIN.

FAVOURITES FAIL IN DIRECTORS' PLATE.

Mullingar, as usual, proved a big attraction, and there was a large attendance to witness some very interesting racing. The Directors' Plate, a £400 steeplechase, which was the principal race on the card, did not turn out as good a contest as was anticipated, and was easily won by the lightly-weighted Silvo. Southern Gleam and Potheen, who shared favouritism, and H.R.H., also a well-backed candidate, never held out any hopes to their supporters, and Garuda, though finishing second, was unable to put up any kind of a fight with the winner. Saki, the favourite for the Belvedere Plate, jumped the hurdles slowly, and did not appear to relish the hard going. She was always some distance behind the leaders, and the race for the last half-mile resolved itself into a match between Ballymackney and Rathmore, the former lasting out long enough to win by a short head. Mr. Ussher's stable met with some recompense for Saki's poor display when Zimbabwe won the Newbrook Plate rather luckily from Gertrude P., who at one period seemed to have the race well won. As usual, luck had a good deal to say to the result of the seven furlongs race. Souderra and Rathfaran, who were the quickest away from the barrier, had excellent positions all through the race, whereas others, such as Sunny Bird and Petit Beau, found themselves fighting for openings. Rathfaran was unable to profit by the advantage she gained early, as she lost her position before the straight was reached, and Souderra's jockey, making the best of his opportunity, got his mount home a neck in front of Sunny Bird. There was a complete turn up in the Clonhugh Plate, the outsider, Lord Lomond, scoring from Cavalry Trot; and in a field of three for the Westmeath Plate Rathdrishogue won in easy style. Details:

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

In an Association football match at Turin on Sunday a team representing Piedmont defeated the English League club, Burnley, by 2 goals to 1.

A football match was played at Modena on Sunday between the Liverpool Club, which is touring in Italy, and an Emilia team, and resulted in a win for the visitors by 6 goals to 1.

The Gran Premio d'Italia, 250,000 lire, two and a half kilometres, was run at the San Siro Racecourse on Sunday, and was won by Fiorenae, of the Cisalpina stable. Ten ran.

Our Newmarket Correspondent wires:—It is evident that Pondoland's gallop of a mile and a half with Pomme Anna on Sunday morning did him no harm, for yesterday morning Sicyon went with him in a really nice mile gallop. This is probably the last work that he will do before going to Epsom.

EPSOM.

PROSPECTS AND FANCIES.

THE WOODCOTE PLATE.

The prospects for the Derby carnival are of the brightest, and there seems every probability at the time of wiring that the weather will remain fine. The track is on the hard side, as is only to be expected, having regard to existing circumstances, but there is a plentiful covering of herbage to the course, and everything possible has been done to ensure complete satisfaction to all concerned.

The chief event at the opening stage to-day is the time-honoured Woodcote Plate (formerly Stakes), and for this a good-class field is expected to go to the post. Lady of the Rose, Wasp (who will be more familiarly recalled as the Wild Hag colt), and Duncan Gray are a trio of unbeaten youngsters who have shown a good measure of ability in public, and reports from Stockbridge are very favourable to Scyphius, a grey son of The Tetrarch, who has displayed a nice turn of speed on the two occasions on which he has run. Mr. S. Joel will be represented by Portlight, who seems a likely sort to improve on the latest running, and Sweet Bird colt is expected to carry Mr. J. B. Joel's colours with prominence. My vote, however, goes to Wasp, who should not find the distance beyond his compass, and Scyphius may be the one to follow him home. The Egmont Plate will attract a big field of sprinters, according to the latest indications, and I take John Green, Pomology, Morning Light, Malva, and Flame of Fire as the group to supply the winner. The first-named has done extremely well in his recent work with a view to this, and I give him a slight preference over Morning Light, who is another Newmarket-trained candidate reported fancied. Hamlet appears likely to do duty for Morton in the Epsome Handicap, and on the balance of form he can be regarded as favourably handicapped. Selections:—

BOXING.

CRIQUI V. JOE FOX.

A twenty rounds feather-weight contest at Holland Park Skating Rink, London, last night, in which Joe Fox, of Leeds, and Eugene Criqui, Paris, figured, was an event of widespread interest. No title was involved, but the principals are the champions at their weight in their respective countries, and both have clearly established their right to a place in the leading ranks of European featherweights. Matched at 9st., they were both 1½lb. inside the stipulated weight when they scaled yesterday afternoon, and appeared splendidly fit, as a result of the severe course of training they had gone through. Fox has won the Bantam-Weight Belt outright, while the Frenchman's claim to fame was clinched recently by his sensational victory over Charles Ledoux, who has defeated so many of our champions. Criqui is the younger and more brilliant, and his wonderful record of knock-outs is impressive, but Fox is a cute fighter, well skilled in his game, and thoroughly plucky. Their meeting promised a long and stubborn contest.

It was a good contest. Fox boxed admirably, but the punishing power of the Frenchman told, and after having been beaten on points for the first half of the journey, he had Fox distressed in the eleventh round and beaten in the twelfth. There was a good deal of clever boxing in the first five rounds, with honours fairly even, and no events that stood out. Both were fast, and Fox flattered his supporters by his skill in avoiding his opponent's rushes. In the sixth Criqui forced matters, but Fox came out of the duel creditably, and in the seventh Fox had the balance of points. He fought an effective left, and kept jabbing the Frenchman in the face, and appeared the faster and stronger boxer. In in-fighting he also scored, and at the end of the tenth round was well in front for points. Criqui made attempts to land his telling right, but without effect, the other man cleverly anticipating all his tactics. In the eleventh round, however, Fox, after holding his own for a while against his rival's vigorous assaults, went down under a right to the jaw. He appeared to have shaken off the effects when he left his corner for the twelfth round, but the Frenchman was full of fight, and, driving Fox into the corner, landed rights and lefts, under which Fox went down. He struggled up, to be put down again, and then the referee stopped the fight and gave the verdict to Criqui.

LEINSTER BOXING TRIALS.

Proceedings will commence in the fly-weights to-morrow, and entries have been received from practically all the aspirants for the Irish championships, and many newcomers. Good sport is promised, and during the week trials at the other weights will be held, winding up with the middles and heavies on Saturday. Some special contests have been arranged for Whit Monday.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

On a hard and true wicket, the batsmen held the advantage at Old Trafford yesterday. Lancashire, who had scored 112 without loss in reply to the visitors' moderate total of 200, batted consistently well against a varied and well-sustained attack, backed up by excellent fielding, and, adding 227, gained a substantial lead on the first innings. In the two and a half hours' play before luncheon Lancashire carried the total to 299 for seven, Makepeace being the chief contributor with 98. Third out, he added 42 to his Saturday score, and was for the third time this season unlucky to fail when in the nineties. The feature of the innings was the determined spurts of the later batsmen, 34 being subscribed for the eighth wicket and 48 for the ninth. In both these partnerships R. Tyldesley (66) participated, his innings lasting ninety minutes. Lancashire occupied the wicket for five hours and thirty-five minutes. Middlesex had two and a half hours' batting, scoring 48 for the first wicket, and 111 runs were on the board before the second wicket fell, both wickets being credited to J. Tyldesley. After this there was some dour batting, despite which the Middlesex captain was caught at short leg at 129 after batting thirty-five minutes for six runs. Soon after completing his 50, after a stay of one hour and forty minutes, Hearne (not out, 50) survived a confident appeal for leg before.

Three overs sufficed to dispose of the two remaining Hants batsmen at Bath, for in the first over Robson sent down he got Newman caught by Bridges in the slips, and Livsey taken at the wicket. Somerset lost MacBryan, their best batsman, before he had scored, but, after three wickets were down for 27, Daniell (43) and Considine (77) stayed together two hours, and advanced the total by 81. Greswell also added 21, out of 27 scored for the sixth wicket, whilst Considine found another useful partner for the ninth wicket in Bridges (25), and they put on 65 in fifty minutes. Kennedy bowled all through the four hours the innings lasted, and claimed eight wickets for 79. The Somerset venture closed for 217, and Hampshire had two wickets down at the close for 63.

Nineteen wickets fell at Trent Bridge yesterday for an aggregate of 361, and at the close Sussex required 68 to avert the innings defeat, with six wickets intact. At the outset of the day's play Notts had 341 on the board with five wickets outstanding, but these fell for an additional 44 runs, Roberts taking three for 27. The sixth wicket partnership between Lee (35) and Hardstaff (117) realised 101 in one hundred minutes, and the last-named scored his runs in three hours. Sussex commenced indifferently, Street and Tate being dismissed for 40, and, despite the plucky efforts of Roberts (54) and Cox (52), the whole side were out in three hours and five minutes for 222. Following the tea interval the visitors' last four wickets fell for 19, Staples taking three in as many overs for four runs. Following on, faced by a deficit of 163, Bowley and Street scored 43 for the first wicket, but four were out for 56, and at the close the total was 95 without further loss.

Some extremely interesting play was forthcoming at Leicester. Rudd, captaining the Leicester team, retired through faintness, caused by the heat, King deputising. Coe and Geary resuming Leicestershire's first innings took the total to 279 for seven. Coe's 71 extended to 4½ hours, and the innings occupied 7 hours. The outstanding features were the effective bowling, which never became weak, and the brilliant fielding of Yorkshire. Yorkshire opened with Holmes and Sutcliffe against Benskin and Geary, and they scored 18 without loss before the interval. On resuming they carried the total to 64, when Holmes (26), in late cutting Bale, broke his wicket. Sutcliffe (50) completed his half century in 2 hours. Only a run had been added when Oldroyd was also held behind the wicket. R. Kilner failing, four wickets were down for 94. One hundred occupied 2 hours and 10 minutes, and 10 runs later half the side were out. After this Rhodes made an invaluable effort to pull the game round. He and Wilson added 42 for the seventh wicket in 50 minutes. Rhodes was batting an hour and 45 minutes for 51 not out.

Although they had half their wickets down for 69 at Bristol yesterday, Gloucestershire made such a good recovery that, batting 3 hours and 20 minutes, they got within 75 of their opponents' total. Subsequently their bowlers fared so well that 8 Surrey men were dismissed for 201, so, as the game now stands, the visitors are 276 to the good with two wickets in hand. Williams and Lyon took pains to play themselves in, and having done so, proceeded to make runs in delightful style. During a partnership of 55 minutes 82 were added. The Oxonian, in trying to hit a short pitched ball to complete his 50, was leg before, this is his best performance for the county. After he left Williams played as well as ever, and was last man out, having batted 2 hours and 10 minutes for 75. Going in a second time Surrey scored 201 for 8. Hobbs left at 18, but Ducat and Sandham made a valuable contribution, the former hitting up 58 in an hour.

It was a tragedy of missed catches that put Glamorgan in such a bad position against Worcestershire at Cardiff yesterday, and they will now have to surpass anything that they have done hitherto this season if they can hope for victory. When the game was resumed, they had every chance to gain, for the first time this season, a first-innings lead, for they were but 127 behind with 8 wickets standing; but after Riches, who made the side's highest individual score of the season (52), left with 15 added, only Clay (30) made any fight. The scoring by the Welsh side was painfully slow, 150 taking altogether 3 hours and 10 minutes. Worcestershire, 15 ahead, enjoyed great fortune on batting again. Bowley, who got 89 in 2½ hours, being missed altogether five times, thrice behind the wicket. He bit 11 fours. Worcestershire are 234 ahead with two wickets in hand.

TO-DAY'S WEATHER.

General Inference.—A ridge of high pressure extending across the British Isles from Denmark to the Azores will maintain fine, warm weather in all but the North-West and Northern coastal areas, where occasional rain is likely, caused by secondaries from a depression approaching Iceland. Over England and Southern Ireland fine conditions will probably last several days, while over Central, Southern, and Eastern England mainly fine weather is likely for the rest of the week.

Ireland.—Wind light and indefinite; fine; visibility mainly good, but some mist or fog in places on the coast; very warm inland.

AIR CUP COMPETITOR FAILS.

PARIS, Monday.

Captain Pinsard left Le Bourget this morning on an attempt to win the Lamblin Cup (the Paris-Brussels-London-Paris circuit) in a monoplane. Leaving Le Bourget at 9.47 a.m., he arrived at Brussels, in spite of a strong head-wind, at 11.13. He left again at 11.45 for London, but was obliged to land at Lympne owing to engine trouble. Captain Pinsard will start another flight on Wednesday.—(Reuter.)

Damage done by the fire which broke out in the Brazza quay granaries at Bordeaux on Sunday is estimated at from £8,000,000 to £12,000,000.

The First Need.

It is, we think, a good rather than a bad sign that Mr. Churchill was unable to make his promised statement yesterday and that the conversations in London are likely to continue for some days. We may infer that both parties are anxious to come to terms, and that Messrs. Griffith and Collins really believe, and are anxious to persuade the British Government, that the Treaty is not imperilled by the Dublin agreement. There are, of course, two things on which the Cabinet must insist—if only because the British nation will not allow it to yield. The Treaty represents its last word in the matter of Irish settlement, and the Northern Government must be master in its own house. War on it from any quarter, inside or outside Ireland, will mean war on England. If the Irish envoys are ready to accept these terms and to furnish reasonable proof of their ability to honour them, it is not improbable that good-will on both sides may surmount the obstacle of the Dublin agreement. In that event the necessary election—a free, full and direct election on the Treaty and Constitution—will be merely postponed. A proclamation by the Lord Lieutenant, which is published to-day, dissolves the existing Parliament of Southern Ireland and defines as "Provisional" the Parliament which will be elected on the 16th June and will assemble on the 1st July. Here we may find, perhaps, the promise of a modus vivendi between London and Dublin. Yet the peace of Ireland still trembles in the balance, and the country awaits Mr. Churchill's momentous statement with deep anxiety.

In the minds of loyal supporters of the Treaty there is only one possible justification for the pact which has strengthened the extremists' hands at the country's expense. Messrs. Collins and Griffith have made this sacrifice as the price of a union of national forces for the restoration of law and order. If that bargain is fulfilled, the results will be fair payment for many political disappointments; for the need is desperately urgent. Moreover, the immediate return of settled conditions in Southern Ireland would do much to assure the British Government that it was negotiating with honest men. The present state of affairs in the twenty-six counties is abnormal and even unnatural. Conviction of that fact is the one thing that props the souls of thousands of good Irishmen in these terrible days. They share the sane and courageous view which the Archbishop of Dublin expressed yesterday in the Diocesan Synod. Ireland is, by nature, a peace-loving, tolerant, conservative country. Religious persecution was unknown in the South for centuries. The rights of property were respected, and warm friendships existed between people of different creeds and classes. During the last few months these secular conditions have begun to collapse. We have seen the beginnings of agrarian Bolshevism, of disrespect for all kinds of authority, of religious persecution, of class hatreds. The appearance of these evils is an arresting danger-signal. If the moral and social collapse is allowed to continue, no form of government, Free State or Republican, will be able to avert national chaos.

Dr. Gregg hopes that the Dublin agreement may bring better government, and the whole country looks for a speedy fulfilment of that hope. The thing is not merely possible—it ought to be easy. Most of the recent robberies, expropriations and other outrages have been committed under the shelter of political and military dissension. If that dissension has now ceased—at any rate, for the time being—and if the Republican Army is now acting as a unit under joint control, the re-establishment of law ought to be swift and far-reaching. The community, which has been powerless hitherto, will be eager to support the forces of order. Law-breakers will be isolated, and an organised public opinion will assert itself as soon as the word "politics" can be flaunted no longer as an excuse for crime. Thus, and only thus, can Southern Ireland expel the unnatural tendencies which now threaten to play havoc with her best traditions and to destroy her material prosperity. The country is waiting for a lead. Will the leaders give it now in such effective fashion that we may take heart for the future of our distracted land? A beginning ought to be made with the crime of murder—such cold-blooded killing as has been done twice in the streets of Dublin during the last three days. No political casuistry or fanaticism can pretend to justify the murder of England's friendly soldiers or of Irish policemen who are ready, if allowed, to give to their country the same loyal service which they gave to the British Crown. The leaders of every party and of every army, regular and irregular, have denounced the Dublin murders. It is their business now to make such hideous crimes impossible in a land that boasts its fitness to be free.

Mr. Rutenberg.

Behind almost every political development of modern times that mysterious factor known as "high finance" seems to lurk. The most recent instance of its activities comes from Palestine. About nine months ago, apparently, a Mr. Pinhus Rutenberg took up his abode in the Holy Land. This gentleman is a Jew, who occupied a fairly important post in the Kerensky Administration of Russia. As a result of his conversations with the Government of Palestine Mr. Rutenberg has obtained a virtual monopoly of the future commercial development of the Holy Land. He has been granted two years in which to form a company with a capital of £1,000,000, and after that time he will get a seventy years' monopoly of the waters of the Jordan and its basins, including the Yarmuk River and all its tributaries. His proposal is to harness these rivers for the production of electrical energy, which he will distribute throughout Palestine on a commercial scale. Apart from what old-fashioned people will consider the vandalism of electrifying Palestine, the grant of an economic monopoly to anybody seems to us to create a very dangerous precedent. Mr. Rutenberg is certainly not a Briton, and that he should be allowed to exploit the resources of a country which costs the British taxpayer some £300,000 a year hardly seems to be fair to British interests. Mr. Rutenberg will require large quantities of machinery; but he is under no obligation to place his orders with British firms. He can buy his machinery in Germany, or in any other country where the exchange is favourable. The whole business, on the face of it, seems to be thoroughly unsatisfactory; and the British Government should lose no time in giving the public a full explanation.

A Hottentot Rising.

The Hottentots of the South-West Protectorate are up in arms. The Bondelzwart tribe, which numbers only between two and three thousand in all, is the prime mover of the rising. Its object does not appear to be anything in particular; but numerous lives have been lost in skirmishes with the police, and serious trouble is expected by the authorities at Windhuk. The Bondelzwarts are among those tribes which were under German rule before the war. They were accustomed to Prussian methods which make very short work of rebellion; and, doubtless, they have mistaken the more humane ways of their new masters for mere weakness. They have been preparing for the present rising since last year. Then they refused to pay the dog tax, and, despite the warnings of the white men on the spot, the Union Government refused to deal firmly with them. Now they are doing their best to persuade the other Hottentot tribes to rally to their flag. They are excellent fighters, as they proved in the war of 1903-1907 against the Germans, when they were first to rise and last to surrender; and the territory which they inhabit is extremely difficult for white men. The Union Government, however, is mobilising its Air Forces in the Protectorate; and, in view of the grave peril which would result from a native rising on a large scale, General Smuts is likely to be as firm with the Hottentots as he was with the Bolsheviks on the Rand.

The Bacon Trade.

While the fate of the Irish cattle trade is hanging in the balance, pending Parliament's decision on the embargo question, the bacon trade is being exposed to a serious risk. America has determined to capture the British bacon market. The first consignment of a new kind of bacon from the United States arrived in Southampton by the Majestic on Saturday, and the Chicago pork trade has organised a scheme whereby pigs which will enter the stockyards on a certain day will be on sale as bacon in London ten days afterwards. The American packers say that they will cut their prices almost to any extent in order to capture the market, and the English housewife is being promised a reduction in price of threepence or fourpence per pound. At one time Irish bacon held unchallenged sway in the British market, and, although Continental firms have succeeded in getting a fairly strong footing, many people still insist on buying Irish brands. The introduction of American mild-cured bacon at a very low price, however, will be bound to injure Ireland's trade. American competition is a hard thing to face; but, in bacon as in most other things, quality always prevails in the long run. If the standard of Irish bacon is maintained at the highest possible level, our pig-raisers will have nothing to fear from America or anywhere else.

New Airships.

German ingenuity appears to be responsible for a new alloy which, it is claimed, will revolutionise aviation. An American corporation for some time past has been employing the services of German air experts with the object of opening a line of airships between San Francisco and New York. The new alloy, which these experts have placed at the disposal of the "combine," is so light that flying in future may be conducted under entirely new conditions. In airships built of this wonderful metal the carburettor and sparking-plug will be essential no longer, and heavy oil engines of the Diesel type may be used. The effects of this change will be an increase in horse-power of several thousands and a consequent increase of carrying capacity. The airships which already have been planned for the New York-San Francisco flight will accommodate a total number of five hundred persons. It is expected that they will be able to make a flight from San Francisco to Constantinople, via New York, in about a week. America is a great country and we hesitate to be sceptical about any of its discoveries.

THE KING AND EPSOM.

The King will go to Epsom for the races daily, and on Derby Day and Oaks Day will be accompanied by the Queen.

THE LATE CAPTAIN WILLIAM J. COONEY, J.P.

Captain William J. Cooney, J.P., formerly of Arva, Palmerston Gardens, Dublin, late 21 Lynton road, Acton, London, died on the 23rd instant in his fifty-sixth year, and was interred in Kensal Green Cemetery, London, on Saturday last. He was well known in legal and commercial circles in Dublin. He was about to pass his final examination for the solicitors' profession when he was appointed manager of the Army and Navy Insurance Co. He was Captain (retired) 4th Battalion Royal Irish Rifles, and was appointed Staff Captain at Island Bridge during the late war, and was subsequently transferred to London to the Land Registry, where he was appointed Assistant Examiner. He was J.P. for County Dublin. In his early days he was an athlete, and was also well known in musical circles, being a singer and instrumentalist. He leaves a wife to mourn his loss.

REFUGEES FROM IRELAND.

Mr. Wood, replying to Colonel Newman, who asked whether Government assistance could be made available for the organisation of relief and finding temporary employment for the loyalist refugees from the South of Ireland, referred to the Committee set up under Sir S. Hoare, to deal with refugees from Ireland. Applicants for employment should register at local Labour Exchanges.

FIREARMS IN ENGLAND.

Mr. Shortt writes, in reply to Colonel Archer Shee, that he has no evidence that armed men from Ireland are landing in English ports. Asked if he can give an assurance that every effort is being made to prevent persons from illegally importing arms into England, the Home Secretary adds that it is illegal to possess firearms without a certificate or other authority under the Firearms Act, 1920, and the police enforce the Act if it is found to be infringed.

TROOPS IN DUBLIN.

Colonel Gretton asked the Colonial Secretary, in the House of Commons yesterday, whether it was the intention of the Government to withdraw all troops from Dublin, and if any orders had been issued.

Mr. Churchill—There is no such intention at the present time.

Colonel Gretton—Can you give an assurance that troops remaining in Ireland will be allowed to carry such arms as are necessary for their protection? (Cheers.)

Mr. Churchill—That question should be addressed to the War Office, but I cannot conceive that they will not be allowed to do so.

INDIRECT TAXATION.

THE SMOKER'S BURDEN.

The recent reductions in taxation announced by the English Chancellor of the Exchequer have caused considerable satisfaction to overburdened taxpayers. However, it is to be hoped that when the first Chancellor of the Exchequer for the Irish Free State brings in his first Budget he will announce many substantial reductions in the numerous crushing indirect taxes which are the legacy of the late war. Indirect taxation is at present positively prohibitive. Indeed, in certain cases it has had the effect of curtailing consumption, and consequently lessening the revenue receipts.

The great advantage about indirect taxes, from a revenue standpoint, is that they are easily collected. They are levied at the source—that is, they are paid by the merchant in the case of imported goods or by the manufacturer in the case of home manufactured goods. The tax is merely added to the selling price, and the "consumer" pays up pleasantly, all unconscious of the fact that he is contributing to the Exchequer.

A bottle of whiskey, for instance, costs 16s. 6d. Of this amount 10s. has been paid by the distiller or the spirit merchant to the Customs and Excise. Thus the trade has to make its profit and pay all the expenses of manufacture, bonding, bottling, labelling, and carriage out of a little more than 6s. The high rate of duty is due to the fact that the tax on whiskey is £3 12s. 6d. per proof gallon. Brandy, rum, gin, and liqueurs are dearer because the taxes range from £3 15s. 4d. to £5 4s. 5d. per proof gallon. The tax on perfumes varies from £5 17s. to £6 2s. 7d. per proof gallon.

Wine taxes depend on the percentage of alcohol present. Claret, for example, is taxed at 2s. 6d. per gallon, while port is taxed at 6s. There is an additional tax of 12s. 6d. per gallon for champagne or other sparkling wines.

The beer duty is charged at the rate of £5 for every 36 gallons at the standard gravity. But the teetotallers are not exempt from taxation. Minerals are taxed at the rate of 8d. per gallon. Moreover, people who indulge in patent medicines must pay a tax which is assessed on the selling price. A 4s. bottle of patent medicine contributes 2s. to the revenue.

Smokers contribute a substantial sum to the nation's purse. Before unmanufactured tobacco can be taken from bond the manufacturer must pay duty at rates ranging from 8s. 2½d. to 9s. 0½d. per lb. Imported cigars and cigarettes are taxed at 15s. 7d. and 12s. 7d. per lb., respectively. Matches, too, are taxed at a farthing per box.

The sugar tax is £1 5s. 9d. per cwt. Before the war it was only 1s. 10d. per cwt. Tea is 10d. per lb. if grown in the British Empire and 1s. per lb. for other varieties. Cocoa and coffee are taxed at £2 2s. per cwt. Currants get off lightly at a tax of 2s. per cwt., but raisins and prunes must pay 10s. 6d. Imported jam, marmalade, and jellies are taxed at either 18s. 6¼d. per cwt. or £1 5s. 8d. In fact, any commodity containing sugar must pay duty on the percentage of sugar present. Blacking, for instance, which contains sugar, is taxed at 5s. 8¼d. per cwt. The taxes on chocolates, sweets, condensed milk, bottled and tinned fruits range from 3s. 5d. to £1 5s. 8d. per cwt.

Imported clocks and watches are liable to taxes of one-third their value. Motor cars and motor cycles are taxed at similar rates. Gramophones and pianos are also included in the ad valorem tariff.

Patrons of theatres, cinemas, football and cricket matches, and the numerous forms of sport or recreation classified as "entertainments" by the Revenue authorities, pay a stiff entertainments tax. The tax on a 2s. ticket is 6d. and on a 5s. ticket it is 9d. As regards cinemas, there is a further tax of 5d. per foot on the negatives of imported films.

Under the Safeguarding of Industries Act, 1921, there are thousands of articles which are taxed on their declared value.

Thus most of our necessaries, luxuries, and amusements pay indirect tribute to the Exchequer coffers.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

Lady Louth returned to London last week from Eastleigh, where Lord Louth has been fishing for the past fortnight. The Marquis of Ormonde returned to England last Saturday from Dublin, where he had been staying for a few days. Sir Francis and Lady Denys-Burton are at Pollacton Hall, their place in Carlow. The young Duke of Norfolk, who is fourteen to-day, is the premier peer of England, and Hereditary Earl Marshal and Chief Butler. He succeeded his father, the fifteenth Duke, in 1917, and is also heir to his mother's Barony of Herries. He is a nephew of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

• • •

Earl Cadogan, who was well known in Dublin when an A.D.C. on the Viceregal Staff, to-day celebrates his fifty-third birthday. His eldest brother, Viscount Chelsea, died in 1908, leaving only one son, who did not long survive his father, and on the death of the fifth Earl, who had been Lord Lieutenant of Ireland for seven years, Captain the Hon. Gerald Cadogan succeeded to the title. It was originally granted, with the Cadogan Barony and Chelsea Viscountcy, to General William Cadogan, who fought under Marlborough, whom he succeeded in the command of the British Army. The Earldom and Viscountcy expired at his death, but the Barony passed by special remainder to his brother, for whose son the Earldom and Viscountcy were revived in 1800. The present peer married Miss Lilian Coxon in 1911, and has two daughters and a son, Viscount Chelsea, heir to the Earldom, who is now eight years old.

Lady Greenwood, wife of the Chief Secretary for Ireland, is placed in mourning by the death of her father, the Rev. Walter Spencer, which took place very suddenly last Friday while he was looking at a picture paper, in which a portrait of Lady Greenwood was reproduced. Living a very retired life, he saw few visitors, and had been confined to his bed for the past three years.

The marriage was celebrated last Saturday at Christ Church, Hampstead, of the Hon. Charles Littleton, D.S.O., third son of Lord and Lady Hatherton, and Mrs. Bernard, widow of Lieutenant-Colonel Ronald Percy Bernard, and daughter of the late Mr. Gerald Paget. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Major George Paget, wore a white georgette gown, effectively embroidered with white beads. Her hat, of vieux rose georgette, was trimmed with shaded pink ostrich feathers. Her only daughter, Miss Cynthia Bernard, acted as maid of honour, and Sir Harry Mainwaring, Bart., attended the bridegroom as best man. The Rev. T. Brocas Waters, Vicar, officiated, and only a few immediate relatives were present at the ceremony. The bride's twin sons are the heirs presumptive to the Earl of Bandon, and are the grandsons of the late Mr. Percy Bernard.

AROUND DUBLIN PLAYHOUSES.

"THE NAUGHTY WIFE."

A comedy, "The Naughty Wife," in which many light and amusing situations arise, gave much pleasure to the audience at the Gaiety Theatre last night. The inevitable eternal triangle is, of course, introduced; indeed, if it was not, the title of this excellent comedy would have no meaning. The theme is delicately handled, and there is never a jarring note. Eloise Farrington, a young wife, imagines that she is neglected by her author-husband, and she decides to elope with Darrell McKnight, a man of many love affairs, who is engaged to Nora Gail, a widow, who learns of the intended elopement, and informs Hilary Farrington. Like a true philosopher, Farrington, although upset by the information, adopts the unusual course of assisting his wife to carry out her plan. He arranges a counter-scheme at the same time, and succeeds in curing his wife of her folly by his kindness and sense of humour, and thus everything, to the relief of everyone, ends happily. The acting was uniformly capable. Miss Grace Illingworth gave a delightful study of the impulsive and vivacious young wife, and she had an excellent partner in Mr. Bernard Merefield, as the good-humoured, but determined, husband. His acting had the merit of being consistently restrained. Miss Evelyn Hope, as the fascinating widow, was good, and other artists who assisted in the success of the piece were Miss Grace White and Messrs. Ernest Cox, George Hudson, Charles Mackay, and Leslie Valance. There will be a matinee performance to-morrow and another on Saturday.

THEATRE ROYAL.

G. H. Elliott, "the original Chocolate Coloured Coon," is appearing at the Theatre Royal. He had an enthusiastic reception last night, and his songs and dances were excellent. The song about "The debts I owe in Ohio" quite captured the audience, and he was recalled. He promised to give the eager "house" as much as they could reasonably want for the remainder of the week. Frank E. Franks, who is described as a new star comedian, tells a string of good stories about his experience in the army during the war, and proved to be a good entertainer. Miss Rosie Lloyd sang some comic songs, and Miss Emilie Hayes, a vocalist with a delightful voice, was warmly applauded. Oswald Bemand gives an interesting exhibition with trained pigeons. He is a clever conjurer. Betty and Billie Burne were good in comedy acting and dancing; and the Cycling Brunettes gave a clever exhibition of trick cycling.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

"Ben-my-Chree," a play based on Manx life, was performed at the Queen's Theatre last night. It deals with the fortunes of Dan Mylrea, a fisherman, who is accused of murdering his cousin, and is banished from the island. The cast was a capable one, from the bishop, who sentenced his own son to banishment, to the faithless comrade who betrayed his friend's guilt to secure a reward. Mona, Dan's lover, was a difficult part, but Miss Dallas Yorke carried it through well. The part of Dan was filled by Thomas Moran. Ira Allen took the part of Davy Fayle, and Fred Lloyd, as the bishop, was very good. The part of Euan Mylrea was filled by M. P. O'Flanagan; Frank Dalton (The Deemster), Gilbert Elvin (The Governor), W. A. Roe (Curphy), and Miss May Murnane (Kitty) were good in their parts.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

One of the best items in the programme at the Empire Theatre last night was the musical fantasy, "Old Memories," by George Ackroyd and Rose Hardy. These artists brought out the melody of some Scotch airs with good effect, and were equally artistic in their treatment of Irish compositions. Meum Stewart and Alan Pigott appeared in a musical scena, and Daly and Healy, comedians, raised much laughter. Douglas and Doreen presented a comedy act, and Dorothy Storm, "the girl with two voices," sang songs and responded to recalls. Nina and Nora danced gracefully and were alert and quick in a number of difficult dumbbell feats. Joe McGowan, dancer, included in his movements an impersonation of Little Tich.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

The programme for the Tivoli Theatre this week introduces variety, which a fairly well-filled house last evening thoroughly appreciated. Lena and Lewis were happy in their Old Kentucky Pastimes, which the audience very heartily enjoyed. Coburn Duo sang and danced with spirit, and Sterling and Bowden supplied a refined entertainment in their drawingroom act with a piano. The performance of the Ingemanns, Danish clowns, with their musical saws, was of a novel character. Barney Murphy introduced the comedy element with success, and the Three Krakes and J. P. Ling helped to bring the programme to a satisfactory issue.

SEIZED DUBLIN BUILDINGS.

MASONIC HALL EVACUATED.

Yesterday the Masonic Hall, in Molesworth street, Dublin, was evacuated by members of the I.R.A. Executive, who were in possession of the building since the night of the 24th April. Possession of the hall (which had been taken, it was stated, to accommodate refugees from Belfast) was formally handed over at noon yesterday by Commandant O'Connor, 3rd Battalion Dublin Brigade, to Colonel Claude Cane, Deputy Grand Master of the Grand Masonic Lodge of Ireland. Accompanying Colonel Cane were the members of the General Purposes Board, Mr. Shellard, Grand Secretary; Mr. Holdbrook, Secretary of the Masonic Orphan Schools, and other officials and members of the Order.

Having made a careful inspection of the premises, Colonel Cane stated that they were in a much better condition than he had expected to find them.

The property of the Order, including their insignia, flags, and other equipments, was undisturbed.

The Commanding Officer in charge of the Executive Forces said that the I.R.A. took no responsibility for the taking possession of the hall. It was, he said, seized by an unauthorised body on behalf of refugees from Belfast, and he was ordered, on behalf of the Executive, to take charge of the building with a view to protecting the property. The I.R.A. Executive Forces took possession after the refugees had been cleared out, and the most scrupulous care had been taken of the property.

After the formal ceremony of handing over possession to Colonel Cane had concluded, the Republican flag which had been hoisted over the building was hauled down, and the person in charge of it refused to leave it behind him, stating that he would keep it as a memento of his stay in the building.

Kilmainham Jail was evacuated by the forces of the Four Courts' Executive at about 9 o'clock last night. The occupants had earlier in the evening received instructions from their Executive to make immediate preparations for the evacuation of the jail. The occupying party numbered about sixty.

The premises of Messrs. Lever Bros., of Parliament street; the Kildare street Club, and the Fowler Hall, in Rutland square, are still occupied by the irregular forces.

An Irish Times Reporter was informed at the Four Fourts that the Kildare street Club and Fowler Hall will, for the present, be utilised to accommodate Belfast refugees.

INCONVENIENCE TO SUITORS.

CORK RECORDER'S PROTEST.

When the Recorder of Cork entered the Court yesterday there was a large attendance of litigants and professional men. His Honour said that there were considerable arrears of business to be disposed of at these sittings, as they had to be adjourned from last Sessions owing to the obstruction offered to the work of his Court.

He regretted that there was now a renewal of this obstruction. The Registrar of the Republican District Court had notified the Clerk of the Peace that the City Court could not be available for him (the Recorder), as it was required for the Republican Circuit Court. His Honour repudiated the claim of these gentlemen to interfere with the sittings of his Court, but he did not propose to enter into a controversy with them on the subject. That was a matter which must be decided by a higher authority.

In face of that notice, any attempt by him to proceed with his Sessions would only tend to provoke an unseemly wrangle.

The Irish Republican Army had also notified him, as follows:—"Only such cases as those permitted at your last Sessions can now be dealt with by you—namely, malicious injury and workmen's compensation claims—already dealt with by you."

He was deeply pained at the loss and inconvenience to suitors and to the public. Their rights to have their cases heard and adjudicated by the Court were the sacred rights of every citizen. He was not responsible for these rights being denied them.

Mr. A. Julian, solicitor, said that he thought that the profession would generally approve of what His Honour had done.

The Court then adjourned.

Edward Charles Bigwood, undergoing sentence of 12 months at Winchester Prison for house-breaking at Newport, Isle of Wight, escaped yesterday afternoon. He was recaptured after two hours' search.

LONDON LETTER.

RUSSIA AND GERMANY.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

Question-hour in the House of Commons was unusually animated this afternoon. The Prime Minister was present, and for the first time for many weeks answered a few of the inquiries addressed to him. Sir William Davison asked what was the result of the representations made by the British delegates at Genoa to the Russian representatives on behalf of Mrs. Stan. Harding, and was much surprised to learn from Mr. Lloyd George that the negotiations had not reached a stage at which private claims could be considered.

There was keen expectation to know the nature of Mr. Churchill's promised statement on Ireland and corresponding disappointment when he announced that it would be in the public interest if he deferred it until to-morrow or even Wednesday. Speaking in serious tones, he pointed out that, in view of the gravity of the issues, it was desirable that the House should, if it pleased, be able to debate the subject. Mr. Chamberlain then stated that the adjournment motion would be postponed till Wednesday, and the Speaker indicated that he would consider carefully whether Ireland should not have precedence over other subjects set down for discussion.

Other questions relating to Ireland were put later. Colonel Gretton asked if it was true that all British troops were to be withdrawn from Dublin, and was assured that the Government had no such present intention. Captain Boyd Carpenter called attention to the I.R.A. concentration near Derry, and was told that that was a matter primarily for the Northern Government, which was receiving, and would receive, every possible assistance from the British authorities. Asked specifically whether, if necessary, it would be allowed to take the offensive over the border into the twenty-six counties, Mr. Churchill said that such action would require the express sanction of the Cabinet.

DIVIDED OPINION.

Opinion in the Lobby is agreed as to the seriousness of the outlook in Ireland, but sharply divided as to the course that ought to be pursued there. There is a considerable section which regards the Provisional Government as having been guilty of weakness, or worse, in having come to terms with Mr. de Valera, and believes that the only way to peace is for the British to reassert and re-establish their authority. Another, and, I think, a larger section thinks that, having trusted Messrs. Griffith and Collins so far, we must assume that they are doing their best for Ireland and the Treaty in the strange compact that they have made.

Mr. Justice Salter cannot have lost a moment after the conclusion of the Bottomley case in communicating the results to the Speaker of the House of Commons. It was past three o'clock when sentence was passed upon the defendant; yet it was barely four when Mr. Whitley read the judge's letter to the House of Commons announcing that "Horatio Bottomley" had been convicted of misdemeanour and sentenced to seven years penal servitude.

Among ignorant people there is a certain amount of sympathy with Bottomley, though, I fancy, he lost the great mass of his admirers when he retired from the editorship of John Bull; but among those who have followed his strange career from the start the dominant feeling is surprise that his downfall should have been so long delayed. I very well remember the Hansard union case some thirty years ago, which first brought him into notoriety, and revealed his power as a lay lawyer. As a young man he was for some years a shorthand writer in the courts. Hence his astonishing acquaintance with legal subtleties.

As a Parliamentary speaker he was unequal. When he first entered the House in 1906 he made some excellent speeches distinguished by the unconventionality of their matter and the excellence of their delivery. But after a time he began to take up fads, such as his campaign for confiscating bankers' unclaimed balances, and so lost the ear of the House. He was returned a second time in 1918, but never secured in the House a tithe of the influence that in his heyday he wielded outside.

THE BOTTOMLEY SENTENCE.

Much inquiry was heard from members of Parliament to-day whether the sentence of penal servitude passed on Mr. Horatio Bottomley to-day will, if confirmed on appeal, vacate his seat in the House of Commons. In itself it will not. A seat in the House is only vacated (otherwise than voluntarily) by three things—death, bankruptcy, or felony. Mr. Bottomley has been convicted of misdemeanour. For this it is in the power of the House to expel him. The last case in which that course was taken was that of Mr. G. W. Hastings, M.P. for East Worcestershire, who in March, 1892, was sentenced to five years' penal servitude for the misappropriation of a sum of £20,000 entrusted to him for investment. But, as above indicated, Mr. Bottomley would lose his seat were he to be declared bankrupt, unless the bankruptcy were annulled after a six months' interval. By the way, the expulsion of Mr. Hastings from the House of Commons made room for the introduction of Mr. Austen Chamberlain to that assembly.

SIR ERNEST WILD.

The one thing that any M.P. who essays to make a personal explanation to the House of Commons should aim at is brevity. If Sir Ernest Wild had compressed into a couple of minutes his account of the considerations which decided him to retain for the present his membership of the House, as many previous Recorders of London have done, he would have the unallayed sympathy of nearly everyone present. But he went on and on, as if he were charging a jury, until most of his hearers were unmistakably bored.

Sir Eric Geddes started to-day his work with the Dunlop Company; but, in response to a request for information, stated that he did not know yet what he would do; for he must have a chance to get acquainted with the position. Asked if he would reorganise the company, he replied grimly that, if it was not organised already, it certainly was going to be. He added that he had left political work for good, and there was no possible chance of a return. All that is finished.

SHELL SHOCK.

Lord Southborough, who is chairman of a committee set up by the War Office to make a study of shell shock, has now completed his report, and it will be an interesting one. The committee held forty meetings and took a great amount of evidence from medical and military experts. The report, it is understood, will deal with the origin and nature of shell shock, and measures will be suggested to decrease the mental disorders due to this cause in future wars. Shell shock was a thing almost unknown until 1914, and there were no methods in use for dealing with it.

Mr. Taft, ex-President of the United States, has accepted an invitation to lunch at the Press Club during his forthcoming visit to London. Mr. Taft is coming to London to study economic conditions, and he will devote some portion of his time to working up the many organisations which are trying to bring about closer relationship between the two great sections of the English-speaking race. The American colony in London is greatly excited over the visit, and many entertainments are being arranged in honour of it.

CRITICAL SITUATION.

DELIBERATIONS OF BRITISH MINISTERS.

NO MEETING YESTERDAY.

PROVISIONAL PARLIAMENT CALLED.

There was no meeting of the British and Irish signatories to the Treaty yesterday, and it is expected that the conferences will not conclude until to-morrow.

According to a news agency, the fact that there was no meeting yesterday need not be regarded as an ill omen: but the fact cannot be disguised that the situation is exceedingly critical.

Mr. Churchill will make a statement on the conferences in the House of Commons before Parliament rises for the Whitsuntide recess.

The Lord Lieutenant has issued a proclamation dissolving the Parliament of Southern Ireland, and calling a Provisional Parliament to replace it.

NO MEETING YESTERDAY.

DELAY NOT AN ILL-OMEN.

A meeting between the British and Irish Signatories to the Peace Treaty had been arranged for noon yesterday, but it was postponed. The Press Association was informed at the Colonial Office last night that no definite arrangements had been made yet for a further conference.

The Agency adds:—The postponement of the meeting of the Signatories is not to be interpreted as an ill-omen.

There is good authority for saying that there are no indications that any hitch has occurred. The delay in holding the meeting is believed to be due mainly to the long consideration which the British Cabinet Committee had to give to the complex matters raised by the preceding discussions.

The British Ministers were in conference at 10 Downing street for several hours yesterday. The Irish Delegation remained at their hotel in readiness to answer a request to join the conference.

GRAVE ISSUES.

MR. CHURCHILL'S STATEMENT DEFERRED.

Mr. Churchill, in the House of Commons yesterday, replying to questions relating to the situation and the forthcoming elections in Ireland, said that he had hoped to be able to make a general statement on the Irish situation at the close of questions that day, but, in view of the position of the discussions now proceeding with the Irish representatives, it would be in the public interest to defer this statement until Tuesday or Wednesday.

It was possible, and even probable, that the discussions would not have concluded by Tuesday, but, in view of the gravity and urgency of the issues disclosed, Parliament was entitled to the fullest information available in order that the House might, if it pleased, debate the subject before the Whitsuntide recess.

Sir S. Hoare—If the House adjourns on Tuesday evening, how will it have an opportunity of debating the statement?

Mr. Chamberlain—I do not propose to attempt to adjourn the House to-morrow, but to take the adjournment motion on Wednesday.

Sir William Davison—Will the right hon. gentleman assure the House that the Government will insist that all members returned to the new Irish Parliament shall, when assembled, take the oath of allegiance prescribed in the Treaty?

Mr. Churchill said that he would have no difficulty in answering the question, but he thought it was better that he should make his statement first.

DAIL POSTPONED.

STEPS TOWARDS ARMY UNITY.

(BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.)

The conferences in London are being watched with keen interest from Dublin, but nothing definite is known regarding their progress. Unofficially, one learned yesterday that matters so far have gone smoothly, and that it is not unlikely that some days will yet elapse before an official statement can be made.

While there is naturally a political lull at home owing to the absence of the leaders in London, the situation underwent a change yesterday which is not without significance. The postponement of the adjourned session of Dail Eireann from to-morrow until Friday seems to be in consequence of the protracted negotiations in London, and is not to be regarded as being due to any fresh development on this side.

The evacuation of some of the buildings which were occupied by the Executive forces goes to verify the rumours regarding unification of both sections of the Irish Republican Army, which have been in circulation for some days.

It is probable that a definite announcement concerning the unification scheme will not be made until the discussion on the report of the Minister of Defence on Friday, but, in the interval, there is good reason for believing that the Four Courts will also be evacuated. Dail Eireann, it is also stated, will have an opportunity of considering the Free State Constitution and the panel of national candidates, which is now on the point of completion.

The arrangements for the elections are proceeding actively. In no camp is the activity more pronounced than in that of the Farmers' Party, which had the distinction of holding 100 meetings throughout Ireland last evening. At all these meetings the prospect of advancing the interests of agriculture was discussed, and three delegates were appointed to convey the opinion of the meeting to a Convention which is to be held during the week in Dublin, and at which the final selection of candidates will probably be made.

Labour interests are also being sedulously canvassed, while independent candidates, such as those nominated by the Ratepayers' Association, the Lord Mayor of Dublin, and Alderman Byrne are working quietly.

A stop-Press edition of The Republic of Ireland was issued last evening, purporting to contain a verbatim report, headed "Treachery to the Pact," of a meeting of the Farmers' Union Executive, which is stated to have been attended by "ex-policemen, Freemasons, Unionists, and Deputy Lieutenants, who are plotting to rob the people of Ireland of the fruits of the war for independence."

Mr. Darrel Figgis, Chairman of the Irish Constitution Drafting Committee, is mentioned as having accompanied a deputation to the meeting of the Executive on the question of "running" independent candidates. The article expresses the hope "that the disclosures may shock the national conscience into wakefulness."

PROVISIONAL PARLIAMENT

CALLED FOR JULY FIRST.

A Supplement to the London Gazette of last night contained a Proclamation, dated Monday, 29th May, 1922, in the following terms:—

I, the Right Hon. Edmund Bernard Viscount FitzAlan of Derwent, Lieutenant-General and General Governor of Ireland, do hereby declare and make it known that the Parliament of Southern Ireland shall be, and is hereby, dissolved, and that the Provisional Government having so advised, I hereby call a Parliament (to be known as, and styled, the Provisional Parliament) to which the said Provisional Government are to be responsible, and that, accordingly, I am about to take steps for the issue forthwith of writs for calling the said Parliament, and for causing the persons who are to serve in the said Parliament to be duly returned to and give their attendance at the said Parliament in the City of Dublin on the 1st day of July next.

Given at Dublin Castle this 27th day of May, 1922.

By His Excellency's Command,
GERALD HORAN,
Clerk of Crown and Hanaper.

SEARCH FOR A FORMULA.

LONDON'S HOPES AND FEARS.

(From Our London Correspondent.)

There was a very grave feeling among the supporters of the Government, and, indeed, in the House of Commons generally, yesterday as to the position in Ireland. The view taken by the Government's advisers is said to be that the pact arranged between the members of the Provisional Government and the Republicans is contrary to the Treaty.

The hope is, however, gathered from the course of the explanations and negotiations that some formula or scheme can be arrived at which shall save anything like a breach, and at the same time allow of the promised Irish General Election on the Treaty at an early date, though possibly not so early as was looked for before the pact.

His Majesty's Government, recognising the serious difficulties which confront the Provisional Government in their efforts to put an end to disorder in their area, and while resolute that the spirit of the Treaty shall be adhered to, are naturally anxious to avoid any action which—the interests of honour and safety safeguarded—might jeopardise the prospect of sole Irish control of Irish affairs.

Meanwhile the Ulster members are expressing great anxiety about the threatened invasion of Londonderry City by a visible force of armed men from the Free State, and are predicting that unless this force is dispersed that historic city may soon be largely in ruins. Their demand is for orders to the British troops to disperse that force, and in this they have the support of many British members beyond the "die-hard" group.

"GREATEST ANXIETY."

APPEAL TO THE COUNTRY POSSIBLE.

The Central News Lobby Correspondent writes:—The position in Ireland is viewed with the greatest anxiety. The Government have given no hint to-night of the progress of the London Conference. Information in the possession of private members concerning the Republican forces, which are within half-an-hour's drive of Derry, is the reverse of reassuring.

A debate will be initiated by Lord Salisbury in the House of Lords on Tuesday, and either on Tuesday or on Wednesday the Commons will hold a debate. These promise to be not debates unless Mr. Churchill is able to make an announcement which will dispel the alarm now spreading. It is recognised that there are present the makings of a sharp Cabinet crisis, or even of a sudden decision to appeal to the country on the policy to be pursued in relation to the developments in Ireland. The suggestion is current that, in the event of stern measures appearing to be inevitable, Ministers would not act without putting the issue bluntly to the electorate.

The uncertainty is reflected in the Government whip issued for Tuesday, which states:—"It is hoped that the House will be able to rise for Whitsuntide recess on Wednesday, but it is impossible to make any definite announcement to-day. Members are, therefore, particularly requested to keep themselves disengaged."

PREMIER SEES THE KING.

The Prime Minister drove this evening to Buckingham Palace, where he was received in audience by the King.

Mr. Lloyd George arrived at the Palace shortly before six o'clock, and was engaged with His Majesty for a considerable time.

THE IRISH ELECTIONS.

CANDIDATES SELECTED.

Preparations are being made all over the twenty-six counties for the General Election. The nominations will be made on June 6, and already many candidates have been selected.

Messrs. Arthur Griffith, Sean Milroy, and Mr. William Cole, of Dublin, have been selected as the Coalition candidates for County Cavan.

A Republican Convention at Carrick-on-Shannon on Sunday decided to nominate Count Plunkett as its candidate for the joint constituency of North Roscommon and Leitrim. It was agreed that if Labour or any other body should force a contest, support would only be given to the three Treaty candidates and Count Plunkett.

A convention in Claremorris on Saturday decided to nominate the sitting member for South Mayo, Mr. William Sears.

Mr. Laurence Ginnell has been selected as the Republican candidate for the Westmeath-Longford constituency. There are now four Coalition candidates (Messrs. McKeon, McGuinness, Robbins, and Ginnell), a Labour candidate, and a Ratepayers' candidate in the field.

At a conference in Sligo yesterday it was decided to nominate independent candidates.

On Sunday a large meeting, in which there were numerous red flags, was held in Tullamore in support of the Labour candidate for the division, Mr. Davin. In a speech the candidate denounced militarism, and said that under a military Government they never could have national freedom.

Writs for Cork City and County have been issued, and will be in the hands of the Sub-Sheriffs to-day. The nominations will take place on the 6th and the polling on the 16th June.

The Northern Parliament has decided not to introduce at present legislation restricting rents or modifying the existing Housing Acts, as legislation of the kind might act as a check to private enterprise.

ROAD MOTOR RACES.

NORTHERN PARLIAMENT'S NEW BILL.

In the Northern House of Commons yesterday afternoon the Motor Racing Bill came up for second reading.

Sir Dawson Bates explained that the object of the bill was to confer on local authorities powers to enable them to close roads in particular areas for the purpose of holding motor races for a period not exceeding three days in the one year. When the famous Gordon Bennett race was held in the South of Ireland it was necessary to promote and pass a special bill to enable it to be held. This bill did not mean additional taxation, but it would mean, when normal conditions were restored, an influx of people interested in motor racing, with benefits to the six counties. It was the intention to encourage motor competitions of this kind.

Mr. Donald, while welcoming the bill, expressed the hope that something should be done to reduce taxation on motor vehicles.

Mr. Crawford asked would the promoters of the races bear the expense.

Sir Dawson Bates replied that it was not intended to cast any burden on the local authorities, nor was it the intention to encourage in the immediate future the promotion of motor races.

The bill was read a second time.

LORD DUNALLEY'S ESCAPE.

Lord Dunalley was fired at near his residence, Kilboy, Nenagh, on Sunday afternoon, while driving in a pony trap. Lord Dunalley, who is 71 years of age, escaped, but his pony was injured.

Shots were fired into the residence of Mr. Head, of Ballinaclough, near Nenagh, on Sunday night, but no one was injured.

BORDER CRISIS.

HOSTILE FORCE NEAR DERRY.

FIGHTING AT BELLEEK.

The last two days have witnessed grave developments on the border. According to statements that were made at Westminster last night, large forces are massed in County Donegal at the approaches to Londonderry, and the invasion of the city is feared.

Strabane and Lifford, two towns which are joined by a bridge, but are situated in Northern and Free State territory respectively, are occupied by opposing forces. Defensive positions have been built, and a conflict seems imminent. Our Strabane Correspondent says that 600 members of the I.R.A. have arrived at Castlefin.

Belleek, Co. Fermanagh, has been the scene of fierce fighting. The accounts which come from Ballyshannon and Enniskillen are at variance in many important respects. It appears, however, that, following the sending of reinforcements to Belleek by the Northern Government, there was a conflict between the "Specials" and a large party of civilians on the railway line, near Castlecaldwell, in Northern territory. Both sides opened fire simultaneously, and an engagement, which lasted for twenty minutes, followed. According to the news from Enniskillen five civilians were killed and several were wounded. The casualty list, however, is not confirmed from Ballyshannon.

Later on Sunday evening, when a Lancia car and three Crossley tenders, containing "Specials," were crossing a narrow strip of Free State territory, in order to reach the village of Garrison, they were fired at by men stationed at what is known as the "fort." The driver of the Lancia car was shot dead, and his vehicle turned into the ditch. The "Specials" took cover, and, having returned the fire, they managed to escape, but they had to abandon the three motor cars.

A telegram, which came to hand last night, stated that Belleek had been occupied by the opposing force, and that all day yesterday refugees from the village and Pettigo, and other places along the border, were arriving in Enniskillen.

NO INFORMATION.

FULL PROTECTION PROMISED.

Major Boyd Carpenter asked the Secretary for the Colonies, in the House of Commons yesterday, if he had any information as to the alleged massing of the Sinn Fein forces on the Donegal border of Londonderry, and if the Government was taking any precaution for the protection of the City of Londonderry.

Mr. Churchill—I have no information beyond what I have seen in the newspapers about the alleged massing of Sinn Fein forces and many motor vehicles on the Donegal borders of Londonderry, but the Government of Northern Ireland and the military Commander-in-Chief on the spot may be trusted to take what measures are necessary.

Mr. Ronald McNeill asked "if what measures are necessary" might include taking measures against those who were gathering on the Free State side of the boundary, and would any impediment be placed by His Majesty's Government against such action.

Mr. Churchill—The crossing by our forces of the boundaries of the six counties will be a matter which, in the first instance, will have to be considered by the Cabinet and the Government.

Colonel Ashley—Has the Commander-in-Chief of Northern Ireland been instructed to give all support to the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland when he asks for it without reference to England?

Mr. Churchill—Certainly; but I have explained that that would not apply to the invasion of territory external to that of the six counties.

Captain Craig asked whether the whole of the Cabinet had considered the likelihood of the border being crossed by Free State troops or I.R.A.

Mr. Churchill—I cannot give an exhaustive account of the subjects which the Cabinet has taken into consideration.

Mr. R. McNeill—Of course, the right hon. gentleman sees the importance of all this. If the accounts are true, there is a massing of hostile troops within half an hour's run of Derry City. Under these circumstances, would it not be best to take the offensive by the military authorities? Would it be necessary to have a Cabinet decision on the matter before Derry is invaded and sacked, possibly within half an hour of the crossing of the border?

CABINET DECISION NEEDED.

Mr. Churchill—Certainly. It would be a very grave decision which would require the mature deliberation of His Majesty's Government before an act of aggression outside the territory of the six counties could be undertaken, even if such a measure was necessitated as a measure of self-defence.

Mr. R. McNeill—As what I have stated might arise at any moment will he undertake that it shall be considered immediately?

Sir John Butcher—Will the right hon. gentleman ask leave of the Provisional Government for British troops to disperse the rebels who are threatening to cross the border?

Colonel Archer Shee—Will the right hon. gentleman make representations to Mr. Collins and his colleagues, now when they have come together, that they should withdraw these troops?

Mr. Churchill—Certainly; I shall see that these matters are brought to the notice of the Irish Ministers over here, and find out what they have to say on the matter.

Captain Craig—Are we to understand that these important matters have not been dealt with in the conference with Mr. Collins and his colleagues?

Mr. Churchill—I am not prepared to say what portion of the difficult and delicate questions of the Irish situation have been discussed between the British representatives and of the Irish Government. So far as the situation in Londonderry is concerned, I received a request from the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland for a naval force in the shape of a destroyer and other naval vessels. I communicated with the First Lord of the Admiralty, and almost immediately vessels left and were in position there. The actual position there is being carefully studied by the military authorities of the War Office and the Admiralty, and we take the fullest responsibility for giving every protection to Ulster.

Sir W. Davison—Are the forces in and about Derry sufficient to meet the call made by the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland?

Mr. Churchill—There are 19 Battalions in Northern Ireland, and the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland is in constant touch with General Cameron, who is commanding there and has full discretion to take any measures he thinks necessary. If more forces are required, infantry, cavalry, or artillery they will be sent.

Mr. Gwynne—Has General Cameron full power on the request of the Government of Northern Ireland to do anything he thinks necessary to protect life and property? Will His Majesty's Government hamper him in any way?

Mr. Churchill—Certainly he has full power in conjunction with the Prime Minister and Government of Northern Ireland to act when they require him.

THE STATE OF DERRY.

Speaking at a meeting of Derry Corporation yesterday afternoon, the Mayor (Alderman O'Doherty) protested against the indignity he had suffered in being searched by Special Constabulary at the border while on his way to the city. For the past eighteen months, he said, peace had been preserved in the city, and now, like a bolt from the blue, they were confronted with a position that seemingly nullified all their efforts to create harmony and good feeling among the citizens.

On one side were hordes of Special Constables, most of whom were decent, respectable men, but many of whom were drawn from the lower elements of society. On the other side were hundreds of [illegible] who had been driven [illegible] last week—good, [illegible] from that city within the [illegible] far peaceable citizens, whose only offence, as he knew, was that they wished to see their country great and independent. They were driven out to become a menace to the city; driven out with rage in their hearts to harass, it may be, respected Protestant fellow-citizens across the border. To these men he said—"Be patient; do not commit any acts against Protestant fellow-citizens; do not introduce into Catholic Ireland what was only found in the North—that hideous nightmare of bigotry." He begged these hunted men not to do any act that would sully the fair name of Ireland, but to repress acts of lawlessness and murder. Let them remember the noble ideals for which Ireland entered on the fight for liberty.

He had been warned, and he had repeated the warning to the British authorities, that, if Sir James Craig maintained his present attitude of driving out and harassing men of national politics from Northern Ireland and from Derry, they would burn the city to the ground. It had been said to him that, if the policy of persecuting Catholics was persisted in, they would burn the city and leave Sir James Craig without a city to hold.

LAWLESSNESS IN EGYPT.

NATIVE GOVERNMENT'S RESPONSIBILITY.

BRITAIN'S TIMELY WARNING.

Outrages directed against the lives and property of foreigners in Egypt, particularly British subjects, have been frequent of late. During the past month reports have been published of attacks on British soldiers and Government officials in the streets. No arrests have followed the incidents, and now Lord Allenby, at the request of the British Government, has made strong representations to Sarwat Pasha, the Egyptian Prime Minister, with regard to the failure of the measures taken to put an end to this series of crimes.

Lord Allenby points out that the impunity with which the numerous outrages have been committed has shown only too clearly the inefficacy of the preventive measures hitherto adopted.

The British Government, it is added, has found itself compelled to hold the Egyptian Government responsible for the indemnification of any foreigner whose life is attempted, or of the heirs if a foreigner is killed. The British Government reserves the right to decide regarding the adequacy of the indemnities accorded by the Egyptian Government.

Sarwat Pasha replied that the Egyptian Government was the first to deplore the crimes, which the entire nation condemned. He said that they could only be the result of excitement generated by the worst instincts of a small handful of criminals.

Since the inauguration of the new régime, he continued, the Egyptian Government had not ceased to give its most serious attention to this state of things. Both material and moral measures had been taken to end them. The Government had not failed to urge the police authorities to exercise the greatest vigilance in order to reinforce the efficacy of the measures already taken.

With regard to the indemnification of the victims of political outrages, Sarwat Pasha said that the Egyptian Government was too concerned with its duties of hospitality towards foreigners to hesitate to accord in a generous spirit such compensation as the circumstances warranted.

It had already shown this disposition in previous cases, and would act in a similar manner in each case when, or if, the situation required it.

GALWAY COMEDY.

TOWN TENANTS TO "RUN" THE CITY.

A meeting under the auspices of the Galway branch of the Town Tenants' League, held at Eyre square yesterday afternoon, proceeded to elect its own Urban Council, instead of the existing Council, which the League held that it had dispossessed on the previous Thursday, and followed this action up by electing six justices to function in the local courts, instead of the Republican justices, in whom, it says, the people have no confidence.

Notwithstanding what had occurred, a meeting of the regular Urban Council was held, under the protection of Executive forces of the I.R.A., on Saturday afternoon to arrange for a grant from the Dail to relieve unemployment.

The town tenants have nominated twelve men to act on their so-called Urban Council. Their names were put for approval to the meeting, and apparently it is now intended that they shall function as an Urban Council without an election or any other formalities. Mr. Larkin, who presided, announced that the first meeting of the self-elected body would be held at 7 o'clock to-morrow evening.

The following were elected magistrates:—Stephen Cremen, J. J. McNamara, stonemason; Paul Kiely, ex-cycle mechanic, now a Labour organiser; Michael Temple, railway shunter; W. McGowan, Peter McDonogh, and James Pringle. How, or where, these justices will function was not stated.

At the churches in the city on Sunday the destruction of the Lord Dunkellin statue was denounced. It is stated that this copper statue, which was the last work of Foley, would have been purchased by an American museum for a large sum.

RECTORY ATTACKED.

GARAGE AND MOTOR CAR BURNED.

About one o'clock on Sunday morning a number of raiders visited the house of the Rev. Mr. McLarn, Rector of Ballinaclough, near Nenagh, and set fire to his motor garage, destroying it, together with a new motor car, valued at £450.

The kitchen, adjoining the garage, and a bedroom overhead, caught fire, and were also destroyed. The occupants succeeded in extinguishing the fire before it reached the main building. Some days before the outrage the rector put to flight men who tried to seize his motor car.

GLASS-BREAKING.

EFFECT OF AN INSURANCE POLICY.

In the North City Republican Court, Dublin, yesterday, Mr. John O'Shaughnessy, Marlborough street, Dublin, sued the London General Insurance Co., Sackville street, Dublin, for £7 5s. 8d., on foot of an insurance policy in respect of glass.

Evidence was given of the breaking of the glass in the plaintiff's licensed premises by a woman, to whom drink had been refused. The defendant company were notified of the occurrence, and they gave instructions to Mr. O'Shaughnessy to replace the glass.

Mr. Reddin, for the defendant company, pointed out that the terms of the policy only covered "accidental breakages." The person who broke the glass in this case did so with malice aforethought, and had been sentenced to six months' imprisonment by the Recorder.

Agents for the insurance company stated that the plaintiff was informed that the policy only covered "accidental breakage," and not malicious acts.

Mr. Green, for the plaintiff, said that it was ridiculous to expect the ratepayers of Dublin to pay for glass which was insured, and for which premiums had been paid.

The Court reserved judgment.

FOREIGN POLICY.

LORD DERBY AND GENOA.

Speaking as the guest of the United Club last night in London, Lord Derby said that he did not like the method in which our foreign policy was being conducted. He wanted to see it leave Downing street and go back into the Foreign Office. It was unfair of the opponents of the Prime Minister to say that the results of the Genoa Conference were the signing of the Russo-German Treaty and a slight straining of Anglo-French relations. The Premier had brought back an armistice, and had shown the world that to deal with Russia at the present moment was absolutely impossible.

He (the speaker) joined issue with those who said that France torpedoed the Genoa Conference. Russia, and nobody else, torpedoed the Conference. If the Prime Minister had anything in his mind against France, let him say it tactfully, but firmly. Friends ought to be able to stand the truth, and if the Premier would say what he had got to say it would clear the air.

Energetically repudiating the insinuation that France was a militarist nation, he declared that her policy was safety first, and said that he believed that France proposed certain amendments to the pact, one of which was that she should come to our aid if we were attacked. Was that, he asked, a thing to justify our dropping the pact? Anglo-French friendship [illegible] the safety and peace of the world, made for the [illegible] the first stone in the foundation, and the pact [illegible] should be looked upon as holy. He believed [illegible] that the big stick was the only thing to make Germany pay, but it must be wielded by England and France together. He was certain that France [illegible] intention of entering the Ruhr Valley, provided that we helped her to find some stick by which Germany could be made to pay.

MURDERED R.I.C.

Mr. Churchill writes, in reply to Colonel Archer Shee, that the number of members of the Royal Irish Constabulary murdered in Ireland since the signing of the Treaty on the 6th December, 1921, is 26, of whom 15 were Roman Catholics and 11 Protestants. The number of ex-members of the force murdered since that date is 8, of whom 5 were Roman Catholics and 3 Protestants.

Heavy firing was heard in the Springfield road area in the afternoon, and bullets swept down Grosvenor road from the Falls road. Terrified foot passengers ran for shelter and the tramway service had to be suspended for a time.

At the upper end of the Grosvenor road district a car containing ten policemen on its way to McDonnell street, the centre of the trouble, was fired on, and Special Constable McGarity (20) received injuries to which he succumbed in a few minutes.

Later Frank Hughes, aged 42, of Varna street, was mortally wounded. Several other civilians were injured. Earlier in the same locality two civilians were struck by bullets, but were not seriously hurt.

Again at night there was much firing, and Thomas Drumgoole, a dentist's assistant, of Seaforde street, was shot dead in the Falls road.

The police called upon a man in Exchequer street to halt, but he tried to run away, and he was shot in the chin.

POLICEMEN ATTACKED.

CONSTABLE WOUNDED.

A determined attack was made yesterday on policemen at Cullingtree road Barrack. Three gunmen opened fire at policemen and a civilian who were standing at the door. Constable Henry O'Brien (22) was hit in the left side, and the civilian was struck in the leg.

The other policemen opened fired, and it is thought that some of the attackers were wounded. Having fired about twenty rounds, the gunmen beat a hurried retreat.

BODY TAKEN FROM THE LAGAN.

The body of a man named O'Hare, who was beaten and thrown into the Lagan at Albert Bridge a week ago, was recovered last night.

TWO INCENDIARY FIRES.

There were two serious fires last night. The printing works of Harold Moore, Hawthorn street, and a box-making factory in Sheriff street were badly damaged.

ARRIVAL OF PRISONERS.

A train containing 57 prisoners, who were taken in the general round-up last week, arrived at the G.N.R. terminus, Belfast, yesterday morning from Enniskillen.

The men appeared to be of the farming class, but one of them wore a fur coat.

ATTACKS ON COUNTRY HOUSES.

BEATEN OFF BY GUARDS.

An attack was made on Finnebrogue House, near Downpatrick, the residence of Colonel R. D. Perceval-Maxwell, D.S.O. The guard saw a number of men approaching the house and fired on them. The fire was returned.

A messenger was sent to Downpatrick, and the Special Constabulary went out in a Crossley tender to search for the raiders.

Early yesterday morning an attack was made on Myroe Castle, the residence of Colonel Wallace, on the South shore of Strangford Lough. Colonel Wallace and his son were away from home, but Mrs. Wallace and two of her daughters were in the castle. The attack lasted from one o'clock to four o'clock.

The guard outside was fired on, and it is thought that close on a hundred gunmen took part in the attack. The damage consisted mostly of broken windows, the glass having been broken by the guard to fire on the attackers.

Early yesterday morning an attempt was made to raid Moyola Park, Co. Londonderry, the residence of Mrs. Chichester, M.P. for Londonderry City and County in the Northern Parliament. The guard opened fire, which was returned, and for some minutes there was a rapid exchange. Verey lights were sent up, and the police at Castledawson speedily responded. A thorough search of the neighbourhood was made, but the raiders had gone. No casualties are reported.

A further attempt was made about noon yesterday to burn Moyola Castle. Military from Upperlands arrived, and put the raiders to flight. Mrs. Chichester, M.P., is at present on her way to the United States.

MR. BOTTOMLEY GUILTY.

SEVEN YEARS' PENAL SERVITUDE.

JUDGE'S FIRM SPEECH.

The Bottomley case was resumed yesterday morning at the Old Bailey, London. Big crowds waited outside the court all the morning, eagerly seeking admission, but every corner was occupied before the proceedings commenced.

When Mr. Bottomley entered the court yesterday he was even more bronzed than usual, but he looked grave and nervous. His gravity increased as he took his place in the dock and listened to the judge's summing up.

Mr. Justice Salter prefaced his summing up by remarking that the case had been conducted by counsel for the prosecution with great care and conspicuous fairness, and by the accused with great vigour and ability. He agreed that the case was a simple one. Mr. Bottomley was charged that on 23 occasions he fraudulently converted to his own use money entrusted to him.

Three things had to be proved by the prosecution in order to establish his guilt and justify a verdict of "guilty." 1. That in each case he received the money for, and on behalf of, others. 2. That he in fact converted a sum in each case to his own use. 3. That when he did that he did it dishonestly and fraudulently, knowing at the time he was doing a dishonest thing.

"He might well hope to repay it," added Mr. Justice Salter, "but that is neither here nor there. No errand boy who steals a shilling from the till but hopes by some lucky chance to replace it. The question is conscious dishonesty at the time the money is appropriated."

THE ALTERNATIVES.

CONVICTION AND ACQUITTAL.

If in any one of these three things the prosecution fails to satisfy you, your duty is to acquit. If it has satisfied you, your duty is to convict.

Mr. Justice Salter advised the jury to dismiss from their minds questions as to whether Mr. Bottomley had been patriotic, whether he had done much for his country, or whether he had been in the pursuit of private gain. "What you have to determine," he said, "is not whether these people have lost their money, but whether or not Bottomley fraudulently appropriated to his own use certain sums."

He supposed that was plain enough. The Judge added that the outlook was not hopeful for those people who had not yet got their money, but the jury must on no account convict Mr. Bottomley because they were sorry for the position of the unpaid depositors. They were on no account to convict merely because there was a deficit and some people would go unsatisfied.

If the jury were convinced that Mr. Bottomley put the money into his own pocket, knowing he was doing a dishonest thing, then it was their duty to convict, and it was no use or excuse for Mr. Bottomley to say, "I will make restitution."

THE ACCOUNTS.

Dealing with the way in which the accounts had been handled, Mr. Justice Salter said that there was such a thing as a stupid muddle, but there was also such a thing as a clever muddle—an intentional confusion. If the jury thought that there had been any intention on the part of Mr. Bottomley to cover up his traces, they might consider that as important material matter. He pointed out that no trustees were appointed and no auditors.

"But even if auditors had been appointed, I don't know what there was for them to audit," he commented, and added that the jury must also take into consideration what Mr. Bottomley had said with regard to the fees asked for by auditors. One firm asked him as much as seven thousand guineas. "But I am not sure when a man is dealing with other people's money to the extent of nearly £900,000 that even seven thousand guineas might not be very wisely expended in seeing that everything was in order and above-board."

MOST IMPORTANT COUNT.

NEWSPAPER PURCHASE.

Mr. Justice Salter described the charge relating to the £57,000 paid for the purchase of newspapers as the most important of any one of the whole counts.

"There is the money taken; there is no existing debt. How is it to be said, and why is it to be said, that to take £57,000 from these funds for that purpose is not fraudulent conversion?" he asked.

"It is proved that he did, in fact, convert to his own use £150,000 of these funds," the judge observed. "The jury have to decide whether he knew at the time that he took the money that he was robbing the subscribers."

Mr. Justice Salter went on to deal with the defence which had been set up, to the effect that the great conversions of £150,000 were not to be regarded as fraudulent conversions, because Mr. Bottomley sought to satisfy the jury that this large amount had been paid out of his own pocket.

The whole point in the case was whether the jury were going to believe that he did pay these great sums of money out of his private means. Mr. Bottomley said that he paid into the fund more than he took out, and that if it was proved that he did not, it was perjury. "That might be said by every person who denied his guilt upon oath. Could they act on his statement? Where was the evidence, except his own statement, that he ever put his hands in his pocket to pay out a single person?"

The summing-up was concluded at 2.30 p.m. and the jurymen retired. They were absent twenty-eight minutes, and Mr. Bottomley, who had been below the dock, returned to his place as the Judge and the Sheriffs took their places on the bench.

FOUND GUILTY.

The Clerk of the Court put the usual formula, and the foreman replied, "We find him guilty."

Replying further to the Clerk, the jury said that the prisoner was found guilty on counts 1 to 6 and 8 to 24, and not guilty on the seventh.

The judge turned towards Mr. Travers Humphreys and asked, "Is there anything I want to know that I do not know before passing sentence upon the prisoner?"

"I think not," replied Mr. Travers Humphreys.

Turning to Mr. Bottomley, the judge said—"Horatio Bottomley, you have been rightly convicted by the jury of this long series of heartless frauds. These poor people trusted you and you robbed them of £150,000 in ten months. The crime is aggravated by your high position, by the number and poverty of your victims, by the trust which they reposed in you. It is aggravated by the magnitude of your frauds, by the callous effrontery by which your frauds were committed. I can see no mitigation whatever. The sentence of the Court upon you is that you be kept in penal servitude for seven years."

"I was under the impression, my lord, that it was sometimes put to an accused person, 'Have you anything to say before sentence is passed upon you?'" said Mr. Bottomley.

"It is not customary in questions of misdemeanour," replied the judge, coldly.

"Had it been so, my lord," replied Mr. Bottomley, scornfully, "I should have had something rather offensive to say about your summing-up."

Mr. Bottomley was driven to Brixton Prison in a taxicab, and passed unrecognised, within half an hour of the verdict.

THE HOUSE NOTIFIED.

The Speaker, in the House of Commons yesterday, announced that he had received a letter from Mr. Justice Salter, sent from the Central Criminal Court, informing him that Horatio Bottomley, a member of that House, had been convicted before him in that Court that day for misdemeanour, and sentenced to seven years' penal servitude.

Mr. Bottomley's conviction and sentence, even if upheld on appeal, would not automatically disqualify him as member of Parliament. A vote of the House would be necessary for his expulsion. The procedure is that which was followed in 1892, when a member was sentenced to five years' penal servitude. A record of the trial was first moved for, and, this having been circulated, Mr. Balfour, then Leader of the House, moved a few days later the expulsion of the member in question. A new writ for that constituency was then issued.

The notice of motion of expulsion is, in such cases, served upon the member, who may ask that he should be brought to the Bar of the House, and be permitted to speak. The inability of such member to resign arises from the impossibility of following, in the case of convicted persons, the ordinary formality of appointment to the Chiltern Hundreds or other office of profit under the Crown.

SECONDARY TEACHERS' GRANT.

We learn that rules for the payment of an interim grant to eligible registered secondary teachers have been sanctioned by the Minister of Finance, Provisional Government. It is proposed, as the normal arrangement, to pay a flat rate of £50 to each eligible teacher. Forms of application for each teacher have been sent out to heads of schools, and payment of the grant will, it is hoped, be made before the Intermediate examinations begin. The grant has heretofore amounted to an average of about £30 per teacher.

FROM TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

PRINCESS MARY'S DINNER.

500 INVITATIONS.

"THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY SAYS:—

The King and Queen will dine on Friday, June 2, with Princess Mary Viscountess Lascelles and Viscount Lascelles at Chesterfield House, and will be present at the dance which will follow, for which some five hundred invitations have been issued.

It is expected that this dinner party will be the occasion of an important announcement.

THE IMMEDIATE PROBLEM.

ENCOURAGING CONFIDENCE.

The Times, in a leading article, observes:—The one hopeful sign in international politics at the present moment is that the reparations problem appears to be a little less intractable than it was a few weeks ago. The indications now are that the crisis has been surmounted. The question is passing into a new and, we hope, a happier phase. There is no longer any question of compulsion being applied to Germany in June in order that this pressing political financial problem may be pushed somewhat nearer solution.

Without noise, without excessive outcry, a better way has been discovered. The gist of the proposals to which the assent of the German Government was asked is that the deficits in both the ordinary and the extraordinary Budgets should be balanced by economy or by new taxation, that the printing of further paper currency is to be taken as having ceased from March 31, and that internal credits for the balancing of the Budget are to be raised by a long term loan, and not by short-dated Treasury bills. In the meantime, there is a simple method of encouraging the confidence necessary for raising an international loan.

Many Germans have large investments abroad, amounting in the aggregate to several hundred millions of pounds. If a large and fixed proportion of whatever loan may be proposed were to be allotted to the German nationals, who have made these profitable investments, it would be easier to induce nationals of other countries to subscribe on the security of fully-guaranteed financial assets in Germany itself.

OFFENDING MEMBERS.

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE.

Apropos the result of the Bottomley trial, the Parliamentary Correspondent of The Times writes:—The conviction of a member of Parliament does not of necessity cause the vacation of his seat. Before the seat is vacant the offending member must be expelled. Expulsion is generally reserved (according to Erskine May's "Parliamentary Practice") for offences which render members unfit for a seat in Parliament, and which, if not so punished, would bring discredit upon Parliament. In the long history of Parliament members have been expelled for various offences, while conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman has also been the reason for a member's expulsion.

In the case of a conviction it is usual for the record of the conviction to be laid before the House. An order follows for the member to attend in his place. The most recent case of the expulsion of a member was that of Mr. George W. Hastings, the member for East Worcestershire, who was sentenced in 1892 to five years' penal servitude for fraud as a trustee. The conviction took place on March 11, and the expulsion ten days later. In the by-election that followed Mr. Austen Chamberlain was returned. A motion for expulsion is, according to modern practice, introduced by the Leader of the House.

POLLUTING THE SEA.

OIL IN NAVIGABLE WATERS.

The adjourned debate in the House of Lords on the second reading of the Government's little bill against the pollution of navigable waters by oil takes place to-day, remarks The Times editorially. Last year, and again recently, we called attention to the increasing evidence as to the reality of the evil which the measure is designed to check. Many of the beaches round our coasts are being fouled by heavy black oil thrown up by the tides. Anyone who has seen the oiling of a ship under present conditions knows that there is much leakage which might be avoided.

The bill places no unreasonable obstacle in the way of this convenient fuel. It applies only to territorial waters, excludes accidents from its scope, and demands only that, except in emergencies, oiling and cleaning shall be done in daylight and with such precautions as shall reduce pollution of the sea to a minimum.

UNSUITABLE SETTLERS.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA COMPLAINS.

In a message from Perth, Western Australia, yesterday, The Times Correspondent states:—The New Settlers' League, which undertakes the placing of immigrants on farms, complains that recent batches include persons who are physically unfit, and some who are unwilling to live a country life.

The League has telegraphed to-day to Sir James Mitchell, the Premier of Western Australia (who is now in London): "The latest batches of immigrants are unsatisfactory, and far below the usual standard." The League lays stress upon the urgent need for stricter supervision over selection and examination.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

HOME RAILS STRONG.

The outstanding feature in Stock Markets yesterday was the renewed strength of Home Railway Stocks, London and North-Western leading the advance, states The Times. Foreign Bonds also met with a fair measure of support. On the other hand, the market in Gilt-edged Securities showed a reactionary tendency, and in other directions business was very quiet. Dunlop Rubber Shares rose further, and there were a few firm features in the Mining markets. Most of the leading investment brokers reported only a small accumulation of orders over the week-end.

ASSURANCE COMPANY'S ACTION.

At a Republican Court held at 11 Parnell square, Dublin, yesterday, Mr. D. Crowley heard an application by the Refuge Assurance Company, Ltd., for an injunction against Joseph M. Mullan, of Rosslare Cottage, Lusk, to restrain him from endeavouring to induce policy-holders in the plaintiffs' company to leave the company or to transfer their business to another company, or inducing them not to do business with the plaintiff company; and to restrain the defendant from publishing false statements about the plaintiff company. The plaintiff company also claimed damages for breach of agreement.

Mr. Wm. Casey, assistant superintendent of the Drogheda district for the plaintiff company, gave evidence, and said that the company had £95,000 invested in Dublin Corporation Stock.

Miss Grimes and other witnesses were examined to prove that the defendant had made damaging statements about the company.

The defendant, in his evidence, said that, with regard to the alleged breach of contract, when he signed the agreement he had not been properly informed of its contents. He had transferred his services because a good many people had gone over to the New Ireland Company. He denied that he had slandered the company or induced people to leave it.

Mr. Crowley granted the injunction and awarded £1 damages for the breach of contract.

Mr. T. Sullivan, K.C., and Mr. Devitt (instructed by Mr. P. J. Sheridan) appeared for the company; Mr. M. Maguire (instructed by Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.) appeared for the defendant.

NEW ORDER IN IRELAND.

EFFECT ON CHURCH.

DR. GREGG'S FORECAST.

STRONG GOVERNMENT NEEDED.

The changes that are taking place in Ireland and their effect upon the Church were referred to by the Archbishop of Dublin yesterday in his address to the Dublin Diocesan Synod.

He said that there was "no doubt whatever" that the Church of Ireland must suffer to some extent, possibly severely, as a result of the new political conditions; but he counselled them not to take too black a view of the situation.

He did not believe that Ireland was completely blind to its own interests, and he was not prepared to believe that the movement which had taken place against the members of their Church would be allowed to extend much further.

Representatives of the Provisional Government had assured him that it intended to deal fairly with all sections of the community, and he could point to cases where its intervention had been prompt and forceful.

CHURCH'S POSITION.

EFFECT OF POLITICAL CHANGES.

The Archbishop said that since their last meeting four clergymen of that diocese had passed away, viz., Dr. Anderson, rector of St. Audoen's; The O'Morchoe, rector of Kilternan; the Rev. J. Bewley, curate of Grangegorman, and, in these last few days, the Dean of the Chapel Royal, the Rev Charles Mease. All of these, in their different offices, had been associated with the work of the Diocese for many years, and they thanked God for their faithful service in that Church. Five lay members of the Synod had died, viz., Mr. R. C. Irwin, a prominent worker in the parish of Rathmines; Mr. Robert Jones, of Newcastle, Lyons; Mr. W. King, of Grangegorman; Mr. E. McNeill, of Donnybrook; and Mr. Thomas Smith, of St. Kevin's.

"I am afraid that the losses in our roll of Synodsmen are not confined to those who have died. The changing circumstances of our country have led some of our Synodsmen to leave Ireland, while others have been transferred officially to the service of the Northern Government. It is impossible at this stage to foresee how far the new political conditions will militate against our Church. There is no doubt whatever that it must suffer to some extent, while it is possible that it may suffer severely. But I do not think that we have as yet sufficient data by which to forecast the future with any sureness.

"I admit that the outlook is not a very cheerful one, but I am anxious to take the best view of it that I can. The very last body that should allow itself to take gloomy and pessimistic views is a body of Christian men, and when I say this, do not let it appear as if I were asking you not to look facts in the face, or to pretend that facts are other than they are. But the facts are not the last word in life. Infinitely more important than the facts are the spirit and the conviction and the faith of those who have to deal with the facts. The human spirit dominates the facts, and, above all, the human spirit as fortified by faith in God. When the spirit of man accepts defeat, defeated he will be.

"But the religion of Christ is the religion that does not know defeat. The New Testament is the book of men who triumphed over the facts. They showed what are the capacities of the human spirit under God for resistance, faith, joy, confidence, peace. With the remembrance of the Cross, followed by the empty tomb, no fact could seem so ominous as to be entitled to rob them of their security, and we must learn the lesson that they teach. If we count up our visible resources, we shall seem poor indeed. But if we remember the eternal resources we have to draw upon, we can face anything. (Applause.)

FARMERS' INFLUENCE.

"But in speaking thus, do not let me seem to take too black a view of the facts: A process of adjustment to new situations is going on, and we must not wonder if many rash words are spoken and rash deeds done. Our institutions and our settled order are being exposed to a severe test, and although many holes have been made in this fabric, they are still in being. How long they can continue to stand without a strong central Government is another question. But it would be childish to deny that there are certain human factors in Irish life of an essentially conservative kind, for whose success and prosperity certain things are essential, viz., peace, security, the rights of private property, and the bindingness of contract—and that these factors, in the persons of the Irish farmers, have and will have a very dominating influence upon the course of Irish political developments.

"I do not yet believe that Ireland is completely blind to its own self-interest. Nor am I yet prepared to believe that the movements which have taken place against the members of our Church, and which have, undoubtedly, tended to assume a complexion of a sectarian kind, will be allowed to extend much farther. These movement have been directed against our people partly because they possess what other people covet, partly because they are weak and have few friends, and partly because they do not profess the same political or religious views as the majority. But sooner or later—and I hope it will be sooner—the community must see that the spoliation and expropriation of Protestants will only whet the appetite for the spoliation and expropriation of those who remain when the Protestants have been disposed of, and that the intimidation and proscription of any section of the population is against the best interests of the whole.

"I do not believe that such action has the moral support of the general body of Irish opinion, nor do I believe that it has the support of the Government of Ireland. Whatever may be the inner meaning of the agreement recently signed in Dublin—I do not propose to speculate on that delicate question, at any rate to-day, while it is the subject of official conversations in London—I think that one result of the joining of forces may be the restoration of greater security in the country districts, and the discouragement of arbitrary acts of spoliation and ejection from house and lands throughout the area to which its provisions apply.

"I have at one time and another approached representatives of the Provisional Government on behalf of members of the Church, and I have always been received with courtesy and with the assurance that it is the intention of the Provisional Government to deal fairly with all sections of the community in this country. To that Government we have the right to appeal for protection, and I can point to cases where its intervention has been prompt and forceful. (Applause.) I am sure that public opinion in Ireland would be shocked if it were made fully aware of all the sufferings which have been inflicted on innocent Protestants living quietly in their homes in various parts of the twenty-six counties. In the name of my co-religionists, I ask for fair play from our fellow countrymen.

"We accept the new political order. It is to our interest that it should be strong and stable. We give no cause whatever for its being said that we are disloyal to it. As taxpayers, if on no other ground, we have a right to be defended against the brutal anarchy of mob-law." (Applause.)

AMALGAMATION.

The President went on to say that he anticipated that in the current year they would gather the first fruits in that diocese of the Union of Parishes Act of 1920. It was inevitable that the operations of the Commission should be somewhat deliberate, but he hoped that in a short time the difficult questions connected with the parishes of St. Thomas and St. Peter would be so far disposed of as to enable them to proceed to the filling of their respective incumbancies.

In regard to the general question of parochial amalgamation and reduction of clerical staff, the President again expressed his conviction that if a parish could supply even the minimum financial provision for an incumbent, and wished to retain its separate identity, only very strong reasons should be allowed to override its expressed wish. (Hear, hear, and applause.) He believed that at the present moment the withdrawal of clergymen, whether from remote country districts or from city districts, was bound to have a seriously depressing effect on their people, who were thereby placed one remove further off from effective touch with Church life. The anxieties of the moment were a further justification for delay in retrenchment. At the present time concentration of energy rather [illegible]

FATE OF IRISH REGIMENTS.

DISBANDMENT OF THE INFANTRY.

TRANSFER SCHEMES.

It is officially stated that the disbandment of the following regiments is to proceed forthwith:—Royal Irish Regiment, Connaught Rangers, Prince of Wales's Leinster Regiment (Royal Canadians), Royal Munster Fusiliers, and Royal Dublin Fusiliers.

Officers of disbanded regiments who are not compulsorily retired under the general scheme for Army reduction will be transferred to other infantry regiments, and officers so transferred will retain the date of their present regimental seniority.

Officers who do not accept transfer will not be eligible to go on half-pay, nor will they be eligible for the special terms of compensation recently announced. They will, therefore, have no option but to accept transfer or apply to retire or to resign their commissions, as the case may be. Officers below the substantive rank of lieutenant-colonel of disbanded regiments may submit to their commanding officers applications for transfer, giving five regiments in order of preference, and every endeavour will be made to comply with individual selections so far as the exigencies of the Service permit.

SENIORITY AND SERVICE.

It is intended, as a general rule, to transfer officers to other regiments in which their seniority and service will correspond as far as possible with those of the officers in the regiment. But until the reduction of infantry officers allows the transfers of officers from disbanded regiments to be carried out, the latter will be attached for duty to other units within the Command, under orders to be issued by the General Officer Commanding-in-Chief the Command concerned. Such attachment will not affect their eventual transfer. Applications for transfer will be forwarded through the usual channels so as to reach the Secretary, War Office, not later than 15th June, 1922.

WARRANT OFFICERS.

Warrant officers and non-commissioned officers of the 2nd Royal Irish Regiment, 1st Connaught Rangers, 1st Leinster Regiment, and 2nd Dublin Fusiliers serving on normal engagements may volunteer for transfer to the Royal Engineers or Corps of Signals, or to the infantry; but all other warrant officers and non-commissioned officers of these battalions desirous of transfer must volunteer for general service in the infantry.

All ~~other ranks~~ of the 1st Royal Irish Regiment, 2nd Connaught Rangers, 2nd Leinster Regiment, 1st and 2nd Royal Munster Fusiliers, and 1st Dublin Fusiliers serving on normal engagements may volunteer for transfer to the Royal Engineers or Corps of Signals, or to the infantry; but all remaining other ranks of these battalions can only volunteer for general service in the infantry.

TRANSFERS.

Transfers to the Royal Engineers will be in the rank of sapper only, and will be granted only on certain conditions, the chief of which are that the applicant has not less than three years' unexpired Colour service and has qualified, or qualifies, for tradesmen's rates of pay.

The chief conditions of acceptance of transfers to the Corps of Signals, which will be in the rank of signalmen only, are that the applicant possesses a third-class certificate of education, has not less than three years' unexpired Colour service, and is not on the married quarters roll. Preference will be given to regimental signallers.

Boys under 18 enlisted for training as drummers, musicians, tailors, etc., may volunteer for transfer for general service in the infantry; but should a boy not volunteer for transfer or object to any proposed transfer his parents or guardians will be notified that he will be discharged. No boys will be transferred to the Army Reserve.

As regards all remaining other ranks, those who elect to accept premature transfer to the Reserve will be so transferred forthwith. All others will be discharged on terms as to compensation and furlough which have already been published.

WICKLOW LAND CASE.

DAIL COURT AND UNLAWFUL ACTS.

A Court of the Land Settlement Commission under Dail Eireann was held at the Dublin County Council offices on Friday last, Mr. Commissioner Maguire presiding, when a claim by John Cullen and ten other landless men in the village of Donard, County Wicklow, was heard, the claimants seeking a division of certain lands known as Doody's Bottoms, containing about 58 acres statute, at present in the possession of William and Joseph Harrington as judicial tenants. Mr. E. J. Kelly (instructed by Mr. Donnelly, solicitor, Ballytore) appeared for the claimants, and Messrs. Harrington were represented by Mr. M. J. Ryan (instructed by Messrs. Brown and McCann).

Mr. Kelly, on behalf of the claimants, applied to the Court for an order alienating an eight-acre (Irish) field of the lands in question for sub-division amongst his clients. It was argued by Mr. Ryan, on behalf of Messrs. Harrington, that if this eight-acre field were taken from his clients, the rest of the lands, which are mostly marshy and of a very poor quality, would be useless to them in the business in which they were engaged. Mr. Kelly applied for an order alienating the entire of the lands. Messrs. Harrington, by their counsel, thereupon intimated their willingness to sell the whole of Doody's Bottoms to the claimants at a price to be fixed by an Inspector of the Land Settlement Commission. Notwithstanding the fact that the matter was pending in the Land Settlement Court, claimants, it appears, entered into possession of the lands, and drove Messrs. Harrington's cattle, and continued their acts of aggression in contempt of the protection order and in spite of repeated warnings.

THE JUDGMENT.

The Commissioner, in giving judgment, commented strongly upon the action of the claimants in acting in defiance of the Court's order giving Messrs. Harrington protection, and stated that he was strongly inclined to dismiss the claimants' application entirely as a penalty for their acts of disobedience, and as a warning to others who might be tempted to take the law into their own hands. He added that he would most likely have done so were it not for the manner in which Messrs. Harrington had consented to meet the claimants, and that he was not pressed to do so by counsel for the owners.

Messrs. Harrington having consented in Court to the sale of the entire of their land at Doody's Bottoms to the claimants at a price to be fixed by the Department's valuer, the Court made the following order:—That the lands be sold to the claimants selected by the Land Settlement Department's Inspector at a price to be fixed by him, the sale to be completed by the 1st January next, the time, if necessary, to be further extended on application to the Court, and on such application strong evidence of claimants' genuine intentions and ability to purchase the lands must be shown; possession to be forthwith restored to Messrs. Harrington, who were to retain the lands until lodgment of the purchase money in the joint names of the solicitors for plaintiffs and defendants. The Court reserved the question of costs and damages in case there might be any interference with the owners' possession, and accepted the undertaking of the claimants present in Court to see that there would be no further unlawful acts committed against the owners pending the purchase.

TO PERMANENTLY CURE CHRONIC CONSTIPATION.

For "liverishness," constipation, biliousness, headache, drowsiness, bad complexion, etc., try drinking before breakfast a little Alkia Saltrates dissolved in hot water. Feel fit as a prize fighter all day.

When you sleep the heart immediately slows down, and then the sluggishly moving blood deposits greasy and acidulous poisons—toxins—throughout the system. Next morning the blood flows more rapidly again, but cannot flush out all the impurities accumulated overnight. That means a clogged liver and constipation, "the beginning of all disease." So poisons are sucked into the blood through thousands of absorbent intestinal glands.

You should thoroughly cleanse the whole system by washing out all the poisons in the morning. Then your body acts better, same as a fire burns better with soot cleared from chimney. Ask your chemist for a few ounces of refined Alkia Saltrates, and take before breakfast and once after the noon or evening meal, a teaspoonful of this dissolved in a half tumbler of hot water. The before-breakfast dose promptly washes out all mucous and acidulous poisons from entire intestinal tract, leaving the way clear to receive and properly digest food. The saltrated water also reaches the liver by absorption, thus stimulating that organ and removing any congestion or sluggishness. This remarkable Alkia Saltrates compound is practically tasteless, also harmless as sugar, in any quantity, and it never gripes. Children love it, especially with a little sugar added. It is the greatest solvent and eliminant known to science, and its amazing curative properties will make you a crank on the subject of internal cleanliness.—C. N. H.

CORPORATION HOUSE SALES.

INQUIRY TO BE HELD.

ANOTHER MUNICIPAL HOLIDAY.

At a special meeting of the Dublin Municipal Council yesterday at the Mansion House, the Lord Mayor (Alderman L. O'Neill) presiding, a letter was read from the Minister for Local Government (Mr. W. T. Cosgrave) stating that he had ordered a sworn inquiry to be held at the City Hall on the 6th of June into the statements and allegations made by Councillor John Lawlor with regard to the manner in which the Housing Committee have dealt with the letting and sale of houses that have been erected by the Corporation.

Two notices of motion relating to the subject, one by Mr. Lawlor and the other by Mr. P. T. Daly, which stood on the agenda, were allowed to drop pending the report of the inquiry.

In the report of the Streets Committee, in which reference was made to the proposed new premises for the Provincial Bank of Ireland at the corner of South Richmond street,

Mr. Moran objected to the proposed building, on the ground that it would encroach on the public way, and that the plans showed that it would not be a building that would enhance the architectural appearance of the city.

Mr. Loughlin supported the objection.

Alderman Hubbard Clark, Sir James Gallagher, and Mr. Lyons supported the report, and said that the building would be a great improvement at a place which was a dumping ground for rubbish.

On a division the voting was 14 for and 14 against.

The Lord Mayor said that he would vote against the report, for the sole reason that the building had not yet been commenced, and that no harm would be done by giving the matter further consideration.

ELECTRICITY SUPPLY.

The Council approved of a report of the Electricity and Public Lighting Committee, which recommended the acceptance of the tender of Messrs. Babcock and Wilcox for the installation of two water tube boilers at the Pigeon House Works for the sum of £35,533.

A subsequent report by the same Committee, recommending the giving of a supplementary bulk supply of electricity to the Urban District Council of Rathmines and to the Urban District Council of Pembroke, was, after discussion, postponed until a certificate has been obtained from the engineer as to the estimated cost of the proposed scheme.

Mr. P. T. Daly moved that the day of the general election be declared a municipal holiday, and that all licensed premises remain closed during the hours of polling.

Mr. O'Callaghan seconded.

Mr. M. J. Moran said that he thought there was no necessity for such a holiday. Everyone who wanted to vote could do so and attend to his business as well. He believed that there were too many enforced holidays. Every one of those holidays meant a certain loss to every member of the community.

On a division the motion was carried by 14 votes to 8.

NEW ORDER IN IRELAND.

diffusion was the best spiritual economy. (Applause.)

The Archdeacon of Dublin proposed the adoption of the report of the Dublin Diocesan Council, which stated that payments since the 1st January had extinguished the arrears. In the diocese there were 85 parishes or churches, with 8,025 registered vestrymen and an estimated Church population of 66,240, containing 104 churches and licensed places for Divine worship, served by 126 clergymen (including 42 curates). The number of Sunday schools was 112, with an average attendance of 4,815, and there were 96 day schools, with an average attendance of 5,288. The number of glebe houses was 58, with 283a. 1r. 10p. of land attached, the rent payable by the occupying incumbents being £521 10s. 11d. Stipends secured under the financial plan for incumbents amounted to £19,919 5s.; for curates, £4,738 10s.; from other sources for incumbents, £11,900; for curates, £5,108.

The amount raised during the year 1921 by collections, subscriptions, donations, etc., was £24,375 10s. 5d. for sustentation; £18,180 8s. 5d. for Church expenses; £4,528 11s. 10d. and £273 14s. for parochial and diocesan education respectively; £12,735 15s. 9d. for foreign missions; for other parochial and extra-parochial objects, £13,245 8s. 5d. and £7,908 7s. 4d. respectively; and for the Protestant Orphan Society, £1,388 18s. 8d. The total amount of these several contributions, £82,636 14s. 10d., was £3,577 7s. 3d. less than the amount raised during 1920.

The Dean of Christ Church seconded the motion, and the report was adopted.

DANCING.

The adoption of the report of the Temperance Society was proposed by the Rev. R. Bird.

Mr. J. Marshal Butler, who seconded the motion, expressed the opinion that there was a great deal of apathy regarding the temperance movement at the present time. He urged that more should be done among the children to promote the temperance movement.

Mr. Roberts offered adverse criticism of dancing in parochial halls.

The Rev. W. Kitchen said that in the present day there was a tendency on the part of young people to go to dances, and the clergy took an interest in them, so that they could have those who participated under their charge, and not in halls where they might not like them to be.

The President referred to what had been done in the Church of Ireland Young Men's Association in Cork twenty-five years ago, when people were looking askance at the dancing that was taking place. What made the C.I.Y.M.A. take action in Cork was the mixed marriage question. It was decided that some serious action must be taken to keep the young people together, because they found themselves threatened because of the mixed marriages that were taking place. The mixed marriage danger was a supreme danger to their Church in places where they were surrounded by large numbers of people of another religion, and they must not forget the fact that every mixed marriage might mean the loss of from one to five children to the Church. He felt that it was better to have their people indulging in dancing in places where they could be supervised instead of in halls where they might not like them to go.

The report was then adopted.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

The adoption of the report of the Board of Foreign Missions, which was moved by Rev. Canon Phair, and seconded by Rev. Chancellor Dowse, said that some of the returns were not to hand, but so far as they were known the contributions to foreign missions showed a figure for 1921 less by £688 than that for 1920, and less by £1,641 than that for 1919, but higher than those for other years. The Board expressed the view that the diocese was fairly maintaining its increased standard of giving to foreign missions.

CHEAP FOOD DEPOT.

On the motion of Mr. A. E. Murphy, seconded by Professor G. H. Carpenter, it was resolved that, inasmuch as the Cheap Food Dépôt Committee had made arrangements with the Dublin Food Supply Society, by means of which the advantages of the society's dépôts could be obtained, the Committee be not re-appointed, and that the best thanks of the Synod be tendered to the Committee for their services during the years 1917 to 1922.

This concluded the business of the Synod.

Lord Glenavy acted as the President's assessor.

The Glendalough and Kildare Diocesan Synods will meet in the Synod Hall on Thursday, and the Joint Synods will meet at 11.30 on Friday.

COLLEGE GREEN SHOOTING.

VERDICT OF WILFUL MURDER.

STRANGE STREET SCENE DESCRIBED.

A Coroner's jury in Dublin yesterday returned a verdict of wilful murder against unknown persons in the case of Lance-Corporal Emery, R.A.S.C., who was shot in College Green shortly after midday on Saturday. The inquest was held at King George V. Hospital.

Constable Murray, D.M.P., stated that while he was on duty in College Green on Saturday he heard shots in the direction of the Post Office. He went there and saw Kathleen Gains (9), of Temple street, lying on the footway outside 21 College Green, bleeding from a wound in the leg. Lance-Corporal Emery was lying in the water channel at the junction of Church lane and Suffolk street. He was bleeding from a wound in the chest, and was apparently dead. Private Dean was lying on the first floor of the Post Office. The dead man and his comrade and the little girl were removed to hospital. The witness saw nobody firing. He found a revolver strapped round Private Dean. It was unloaded.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gains said that she heard some shots and saw a side car and two soldiers in it; one of them was standing up. She ran into the Post Office, and found that her daughter Kathleen had been shot. She was confused, and did not notice any men near at the time.

Maxwell Tapley, aged 9 years, of 3 Suffolk street, said that he was running down Church lane towards College Green when he saw two men coming towards him. One of the men pulled out a revolver and fired five or six shots. The second man had also a revolver, but the witness did not see him fire, and he did not see any soldiers at the time.

In reply to a question as to whether he would know the men again, the witness said that he only saw their side faces.

FINDING OF THE BODY.

Michael Byrne, Stephen's place, said that he was on the Trinity College side of the Post Office when he heard four or five shots. Just before the shots were fired a motor cycle and side car, with two soldiers, passed in the direction of the Post Office. On hearing the shots he turned round, and saw the lance-corporal getting out of the car, which was then stopped outside the Post Office. The witness noticed that the lance-corporal put his right hand towards his left arm, and then ran towards Church lane. Witness ran after him to render first aid, and found him lying in Suffolk street. On opening his tunic, shirt, and vest the witness found that he had been shot through the heart. Afterwards, when he was coming down Church lane, the witness saw another soldier being carried on a stretcher. The witness did not see the men who fired.

Hubert Burne, Donore avenue, an I.R.A. police officer, said that he was on a tram car going past Trinity College and heard four shots. He got off the car, and saw men and women running in all directions. He saw a soldier about to jump from the side car of a motor bicycle. The soldier made for Church lane, as witness believed, after three or four men who ran that way. Witness did not see the actual shooting.

Captain C. M. Finny, R.A.M.C., said that he performed a post-mortem examination on the body of Lance-Corporal Emery, and found five bullet wounds, which had been caused by three bullets. One bullet passed through the muscles of the neck, and the other two inflicted serious injuries to both lungs.

The Coroner (Dr. Byrne) observed that it was an extraordinary state of affairs that a matter like this should have occurred.

The jury found that death was caused by shock and hemorrhage from bullet wounds, inflicted by some person or persons unknown—"in our opinion, wilful murder."

The jury tendered sympathy to the relatives of the deceased soldier, and Lieutenant Douglas returned thanks, and expressed regret at the occurrence on behalf of the military.

KILDARE PLACE COLLEGE

DECISION OF NORTHERN PARLIAMENT.

Replying to Mr. R. Crawford, in the Northern House of Commons yesterday, Mr. McKeown, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Education, said that the Ministry proposed to continue the arrangement with the Church of Ireland Training College, Dublin, whereby candidates from all parts of Ireland have been trained for the teaching profession, this College having agreed to comply with the Ministry's requirements in all points, especially in regard to the curriculum to be followed by the students, and inspection and examinations by the Ministry's officials. The arrangement was in accordance with the rules hitherto in force under the Commissioners of National Education, and was merely a continuation of the practice existing before the Ministry took over the control of education in Northern Ireland. It was not anticipated that the arrangement would be prejudicial to the new Training College to be established in Belfast. No increase in the approved capitation grants would be necessary, nor did the recognition of Kildare place College, which was now understood to be open to entrants of all Protestant denominations, in any way represent a new departure from the existing practice in regard to the recognition of denominational training colleges which had been in existence for many years both in Ireland and Great Britain.

OATH-BOUND SOCIETIES.

DR. GILMARTIN'S WARNING.

Addressing the congregation in Claremorris on the occasion of a Confirmation, the Most Rev. Dr. Gilmartin, Archbishop of Tuam, expressed the pleasure that he felt at what seemed to be an improvement in the state of things in the country. He hoped that that improvement would continue. It was a great matter that they had ceased to fight amongst themselves, and no longer gave the enemy an opportunity of saying that the Irish were not able to govern themselves. But the danger was not all past. See what was happening in the North: Catholics were subjected to every provocation. They did not know what the ulterior designs were—they might be terrible; but if the people remained united amongst themselves they would realise the union of strength. He appealed to the people to keep up prayer.

He further warned young men against taking oaths. Oaths were sometimes taken lawfully when they had the sanction of the Church and of the legitimate Government of the country, but outside that the taking of an oath was serious. If they had taken an oath, in theology it could not bind them to do anything that was wrong. If the circumstances changed and the carrying out of an oath was injurious to the country or to someone, it ceased to bind. An oath calling on men to do something which their conscience told them was wrong was not binding. They could not use religion to profane religion.

SUCCESSFUL FETES.

MEATH HOSPITAL'S RESTORED FINANCES.

An improvement in the financial position of the Meath Hospital was reported at the annual meeting yesterday. The overdraft of April 1, 1921—£8,245—had been wiped out, and, in addition, the hospital had received £2,579 from the National Relief Fund; £3,612 from the Associated Hospitals' Fête, and its own fête had brought in £2,370.

Those sums were particular to that year, however, and they had to rely to a great extent on private generosity if next year's report was to be as satisfactory.

The balance sheet showed that at the beginning of the financial year (April 1, 1921) the hospital had a debit balance of £18,809. The expenditure was £16,290, and income £16,030, leaving an additional debit balance of £260. Against the total debit of £19,069 was the credit on the capital account—a sum of £19,371. Thus the accounts showed a final credit balance of £202.

The amount contributed by paying patients was £3,432, as against £3,060 during the year ended March 31, 1921, and £1,732 during the previous year. The amounts received for the treatment of ex-soldiers was £3,470.

On April 1, 1921, there were 112 patients; 1,421 were admitted during the year, or a total of 1,533. Of these, 1,340 were discharged, cured or relieved, 84 died, and 109 remained on 31st March, 1922.

The total number of days spent in hospital was 34,308, and the average daily number of beds occupied was 94. There were 6,894 accident cases treated as outdoor patients, and the dispensary cases numbered 21,948.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin, who presided at the meeting, said that he had never received any complaints about this hospital.

Mr. W. S. Collis said that the financial success of the year's working was a "record."

The report and accounts were adopted by the meeting.

FINANCE BILL.

REJECTION MOVED.

LABOUR CRITICISM.

On the motion for the second reading of the Finance Bill in the House of Commons yesterday,

Colonel Wedgwood said that he and Mr. Clynes had put down a motion for the rejection of the bill. It was the first time that the Labour Party had moved the rejection of a finance bill, and, therefore, it was necessary to make a particularly strong case to justify that step. For the first time since the war there was to be a substantial remission of taxation. In that remission the vested interests had been thought of first, and the common people only second. It was a rich man's Budget.

He submitted also that there was no proper case for any reduction in taxation at all. What should have happened was a reduction in expenditure, and that should have translated itself into a reduction of debt. All the canons of sound finance were being violated. Trade would not be benefited. Money would be dearer, and not cheaper. The Government had yielded to a Press agitation. The Daily Mail had broken their principles.

The Labour Party also advocated a levy on capital, or, in other words, a reconstruction of the capital of the country.

Mr. Myers seconded, complaining particularly of the manner in which existing taxation hit the poorer classes, while there appeared to be plenty of capital available for investment in good securities.

SPECULATIVE CONJECTURE.

Mr. Asquith said that in regard to the general policy of the Budget he had nothing to add, after mature reflection, as to the first impressions which were made on him when it was introduced. The estimated surplus and the realisation of it appeared to be well in the realm of speculative conjecture. He doubted very much whether the forecasts, both of revenue and expenditure, were likely to be realised. He would be delighted if they were, and the Chancellor's gamble came off. But he was bound to say he did not think the Chancellor had provided to the House adequate evidence justifying either one or the other.

It was a pity that the Chancellor could only obtain his surplus by suspending the sinking fund and re-borrowing money to meet obligations maturing in the next twelve months. In the course of the last debate the Chancellor had referred to him as an example in this respect. While he was Chancellor from 1906 to 1909 he reduced the National Debt of the country by over 41 millions. He was succeeded by another Chancellor, and he never repudiated his responsibility as head of the Government for the action of his colleagues, particularly in the domain of finance. He (Mr. Asquith), in 1908, pointed out that after the unexampled efforts which the Government had made in three years in the reduction of debt, it would be perfectly legitimate for his successor to slacken the pace, in order that a portion of the overflowing revenue of the country should be applied to the remission of taxation or to the financing of social reforms.

The attack made by Sir Robert Horne was an attack on the Prime Minister. His finance then was perfectly sound. From 1909 to the outbreak of war they never paid off in any year less than 10 millions of debt, except when the House of Lords "held up" the Budget. What then became of Sir R. Horne's charge that he tinkered with the Sinking Fund? He had better settle the point with the Prime Minister himself.

TWO POINTS.

There were two points on which the House was entitled to a little further information. The Chancellor claimed that they had paid off 320 millions debt in three years. As a fact, if they compared the total debt as it was on March 31, 1919, to the debt on 31st March last, there was little change. The reason was that, in the twelve months succeeding the armistice the Government borrowed another 320 millions. It was the 320 millions, and only that, which the Government had wiped off.

The right hon. gentleman said that the admittedly large addition to the debt in the year was caused by necessary war expenses. Yes; but it was substantially due to the adventurous undertakings by the Government—costly, futile adventures which had since been abandoned—in Russia, Mesopotamia, Persia, and elsewhere. It was a renewal of borrowing for war objects, and he could not admit that the additional debt could be regarded as the necessary consequence of the conclusion of war. Therefore, they stood substantially and practically where they were when the armistice concluded.

He wanted further information on the point—how much of that reduction, and not of that reduction only, but of all the attempts made by Chancellors during that period, was due to the sale and realisation of capital assets. He hoped the Chancellor would give them in the form of a return, showing what were the capital war assets on 31st March, 1919, and how much of them had been realised year by year in the three years. How much of those that had been realised had gone in the form of appropriations in aid to the expenditure of particular departments, and what at this moment was the balance left?

He would like to know what was anticipated to be received this year. It was desirable to have all those figures before they entered on the Committee stage of the bill. These facts showed that what the Government had done was to treat the sale of capital assets as revenue. Therefore, their whole claim in respect of debt reduction assumed a very different complexion.

RETURN TO BE GIVEN.

Sir Robert Horne said that he was quite prepared to give the return for which Mr. Asquith asked. It was true that after the armistice there was a considerable increase in debt by some 320 millions sterling, but that was due in the main to war charges. The right hon. gentleman could not suppose that the war could be brought to an end on Armistice Day, and that thereafter charges for the year would be peace-time charges. The right hon. gentleman said that they were engaged in a policy of adventure, and made special reference to Russia. Let him recall the state of things there. Did he suggest that we should have left our men out there, and sent no one to save them? If that was not his contention, was not the expense well justified?

The right hon. gentleman criticised the use of the money which had been realised from the sale of war assets in putting it to current revenue, but the accounts of the nation were not kept like the accounts of an ordinary trading firm. If they treated the sums realised from the sale of capital assets as capital, then equally they would be bound to put in a special account of expenditure incurred in connection with the winding up of the war.

The whole of the capital assets realised was entered as part of the ordinary revenue, and there was entered as part of the ordinary expenditure the enormous burden we were still bearing as a result of the war. It was not reasonable to say that they must put these war charges among their expenditure, and that on the other side they were not to take into account what they realised from the sale of war assets.

The right hon. gentleman had not in the past taken the purist attitude he took that day. The position to-day was unparalleled by anything the right hon. gentleman had to face. It was very easy to take these views of finance in happier conditions, and come there and criticise the Government at a time when the obligations were not upon him.

Mr. Asquith said that he would never have referred to the matter, except that the right hon. gentleman had wantonly accused him of tinkering with the Sinking Fund.

Sir Robert Horne said that on the other hand the right hon. gentleman had accused him of diverging into heretical paths by suspending the Sinking Fund. He thought that they could now cry quits.

It was not true for Colonel Wedgwood to say that the Government had favoured the railway companies. One provision of the newer Legislation was that, in so far as railway companies made any revenue in excess of their revenue of 1913, four-fifths of that had to be given back in reduction of freights, and only one-fifth went to shareholders. He did not think that the House would be inclined to reject the Bill on any of the grounds that had been put forward.

The amendment for the rejection of the bill was negatived by 163 votes to 21, and the bill was read a second time.

The financial resolution for the purposes of the Law of Property, Stamp Duty, etc., Bill passed through Committee.

THE LATE SIR JOHN ARNOTT'S ESTATE.

At a Republican Circuit Court yesterday at Kevin street Technical Schools, Dublin, Mr. Arthur Clery heard a claim by Lady Emily J. FitzGerald-Arnott against Sir John Arnott, Bart., for the sum of £1,034 5s., with interest, for moneys expended by the plaintiff, as alleged, for the use, and at the request, of the defendant as executor and trustee of the will of the late Sir John Arnott in connection with the purchase of ground for the interment of the deceased and the erection of a monument thereon to his memory.

Mr. J. Costelloe, who, with Mr. M. J. Hannan (instructed by Mr. William A. McCracken), appeared for Lady FitzGerald-Arnott, said that the plaintiff and defendant were appointed trustees and executors of his will by the late Sir John Arnott, who died at Woodlands, Cork, on 28th March, 1898, and that the deceased was interred in Douglas Cemetery, Cork; that his (counsel's) instructions were that it was then agreed that an additional plot of ground should be purchased and a monument erected thereon, which was done by Lady FitzGerald-Arnott, and a monument to the deceased was erected thereon, as she alleged, by the consent of the defendant. The inscription on the monument stated that it was erected by the plaintiff. The question was what were funeral expenses, and counsel, quoting authorities, said that in such a case there would be no doubt that a monument was part of funeral expenses.

Lady FitzGerald-Arnott, examined by Mr. Hannan, said that after her husband's death she arranged with Canon Harley for the interment in a plot belonging to her own family, but that she intended to acquire additional ground and to erect a monument on it, and it was to recover these expenses she was now suing.

Mr. Clery—You are not suing the defendant in his personal capacity, but as trustee of the will?

Mr. Costelloe—As trustee of the will.

In reply to Mr. Marnan (who was instructed by Messrs. Casey, Clay, and Collins), on behalf of Sir John Arnott, the defendant, the plaintiff admitted that the funeral and burial expenses, amounting to £149 7s. 6d., were at the time paid by the defendant out of the trust estate.

In reply to further questions, the plaintiff said that the additional expenses were incurred by her in 1899, and that defendant always disputed that it was a proper claim against the estate.

Mr. Marnan then read the clause of the will, which provided that—"If any question of difficulty shall arise touching the administration of my estate or the carrying into effect of the trusts of my will, or if any difference or dispute between any of my legatees or devisees shall arise, the same shall be submitted by my trustees for the decision or adjudication of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, Ireland."

Continuing, counsel said that differences did arise from time to time, and were decided by several judges of the Chancery Division, including the late Sir Alexander Porter, Master of the Rolls; Mr. Justice Barton, and Mr. Justice Powell; but at no time during the long period, over twenty-four years, that elapsed since testator's death did the plaintiff bring any proceeding before the Court of Chancery in respect of her present claim, which he (counsel) submitted was absolutely barred. This was a case of one trustee asking this Court to direct another trustee to pay out money that did not belong to either of them, and which he (the defendant) was advised was not a proper claim against the trust estate, in which other beneficiaries were interested.

After further arguments by counsel,

Mr. Clery intimated that he would look into the authorities and give judgment at an early date.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

FREE ELECTIONS?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—This is the question agitating the country at the present moment, and it is time that the people got a definite answer from Messrs. Collins and de Valera. However, there are already signs that some elements are against the people's registering their opinion, and the next few weeks will be the supreme test of the moral courage of this nation. It will be remembered that in Saturday's Press it was announced that I would stand as an independent on the ratepayers' programme, already published, for the joint constituencies of Longford and Westmeath. This I intend to do, regardless of consequences. On Saturday night about ten o'clock I reached home from Dublin, and just as I turned off the avenue from the hall door three men rushed out of a shrubbery and covered me with revolvers and shouted "Halt!" I demanded their authority and they showed me the revolvers. I was conducted, a prisoner, into my own house, where there were four other armed men searching. The only occupants of the house in my absence were a servant girl of about sixteen or seventeen years and a little boy of six years. They demanded of me a revolver and rifle that they said I had, but I denied having any arms but a shot gun. They threatened to take myself if I did not hand over the arms mentioned. I told them they could have myself. Then they searched the house, and the man in charge said that he would take the shot gun. I told him that, if he did, I would shut down work on Monday morning and turn away eighteen employés, as there was no use in my producing food for the vermin. He then decided to leave the gun and fifty rounds, taking with him fifty-three rounds of shot gun ammunition. My telephone was also broken.

It is quite evident that this raid is not a mere coincidence with my selection as an independent candidate, and, if it were intended as a deterrent, it will have quite the opposite effect. I was a member of the Irish Republican Brotherhood before these raiders left the cradle, and probably before some of them entered it. I fought for my country before they knew they had a country, and will serve it now according to the dictates of my own conscience and not according to the dictates of the revolver. The raid may delay my visiting the constituency, but it will not alter my determination to contest the election, and I am sure it will not alter, but strengthen, the resolution of my supporters.

If the use of the revolver is persisted in, some new candidates may go down, but it is far better to be shot than live to see the Ireland of our dreams and hopes wiped out in a welter of native blood. Those who claim to lead ought to show that they are worthy of their trust and say whither they are going, or acknowledge their impotence or incompetence, or both. If every man with a revolver is to become a law unto himself, then England has proved her case beyond her most sanguine expectations, that the Irish are unfitted for freedom, and the Irish question will be at last solved, not by association, but by submersion.—Yours, etc.,

MOTOR DRIVERS' LICENCES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—As a motorist of eight years' standing, I am deeply interested in the proposed test for licensed drivers, and am extremely anxious to know how such examinations are to be held. My experience shows that very often the "best drivers" are the most dangerous. On several occasions I have narrowly escaped collision with other cars, and on every such occasion the driver has been a professional chauffeur. The professional chauffeur has only his own life to consider, and he apparently holds this cheaply. He frequently comes round corners on the wrong side at a high rate of speed, trusting to his skill in driving to avert accident, and he seldom signals his approach by sounding his horn. The owner-driver, on the other hand, has both his car and his life to consider, and invariably drives with much greater caution, keeps to his own side of the road, and sounds his horn when rounding corners.

While agreeing that licences should not be granted to obviously incompetent persons, I believe that the proper way to prevent accidents would be to fine heavily all drivers (of any class of vehicle) found contravening the proper rules of the road, and I consider that such "proper rules" should be framed and made law. Licences should be necessary for the drivers of all vehicles; speed limits for towns and villages should be rigidly enforced, and breakers of such rules should have their licences suspended.

Until proper rules of the road for all traffic are rigidly enforced accidents are bound to occur. The worst offenders at present are pedestrians, who should be compelled (on those roads where good footpaths are provided) to keep to the footpaths, leaving the vehicular track clear for vehicular traffic. Slow-moving traffic, such as farm or other heavily-laden carts, should be compelled to keep on their own side of the road and to carry tail lights after dark, and all animals should be under proper control. Every user of the road should contribute to the upkeep of the same, and should be compelled so to use it as to cause the minimum of inconvenience to his fellow-users; and it should be realised that roads are intended for traffic and for traffic only.—Yours, etc.,

THE INTERIM GRANT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Secondary teachers will appreciate your sub-leader in to-day's issue. It is now three months since a guarantee was received from the Minister of Education that an interim grant of at least £38,000 would be made before the end of the present academic year. At the same time the Minister expressed a hope of having the grant doubled. Since then no further official announcement has been made, and the teachers do not yet know what the exact amount of the grant will be. It is true that the Intermediate Board has sent out forms to be filled up by teachers who desire to participate in the grant; but it is surely an anomalous proceeding to send out such forms while no public announcement on the subject has been made.

The reason for this delay is hard to see. It can scarcely be reasons of finance; for, according to an official return, the Provisional Government has a credit balance of approximately £1,500,000. Whatever be the cause, the effect is that the confidence of the teachers in the new Government is being rapidly undermined. Not unnaturally they contrast their treatment with that accorded to other branches of public servants—the railway and postal officials, for instance. On the very day when the Provisional Government came into existence a railway dispute was disposed of, and the companies received a guarantee which might involve hundreds of thousands of pounds. Equally prompt steps were taken to deal with the postal crisis. But with the secondary teachers the methods of delay and postponement, so dear to the late Administration, are still pursued. The inference is, unfortunately, only too obvious.

If the confidence and good-will of the teachers are to be secured, a statement on the matter should be made at once.—Yours, etc.,

A RARE INSECT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—It may be of interest to record the capture here on Thursday of what I believe to be a female specimen of the broad-bordered bee hawk moth. The insect is very worn and apparently near the end of her laying; she has laid six bright green eggs in captivity. The antennae are black and oar-shaped. The head and thorax are golden-olive above and very pale olive beneath (fishermen's colours). The wings are clear, bee-like, with a slight dusting of golden-olive down, and black border broadening at the tips. The abdomen is in the upper part black, with olive shading gradually deepening to orange red at the tip, which is broad and black.

As I fancy that the species is rare in this country, I shall be very glad of confirmation of my identification, and also any information as to the food plant for the caterpillars if the eggs hatch out.—Yours, etc.,

R. H. METGE.

MOTOR CYCLING.

TOURIST TROPHY RACES.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

DOUGLAS, Monday.

The motor cyclists' carnival of speed commences to-morrow in the Isle of Man, when the [illegible] races for the light-weight [illegible] combined take place. [illegible] light-weight and junior tourist trophies [illegible] practising for the events, which has been in progress for the past fortnight, came to an end this morning, and was notable for the fast circuits of the 37½ miles course by Bennett, one of the Sunbeam riders, who did 39 mins. 11 secs., the fastest lap that has been done to date, and a 40-minute lap by Dixon, on an Indian. Speeds of 58 miles an hour have been so common in practice that there is great hope that even 60 will be reached in the senior race on Thursday.

To-day the preliminaries of weighing in and examining the competing machines for Tuesday's races were completed without incident, and at ten o'clock to-morrow the first of the races start. The combining of the light-weights with the junior machines in one race is sure to have the effect of lessening interest in the smaller machines, but the necessity of confining the racing to two days makes this inevitable. For the light-weight class there are 32 entries and in the junior there are 38, so there will be a field of 70 in to-morrow's race. All of them weighed in this morning.

Ireland's interest in the light-weight class will centre in C. W. Johnston, late of Dublin, who is riding a New Imperial. In the junior we have three representatives—Chambers and Dale, of Belfast, and Stanley Woods Cotton, of Dublin. The quartette are new to Isle of Man racing, but are not without experience of speed work.

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSED STRONG.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Monday.

To-morrow being Decoration Day, all the American markets, except New Orleans, will be closed.

Stocks opened strong. The "cut" in railroad wages and the steadiness of foreign exchanges caused renewed speculative operations for the rise on a large scale. Many active stocks moved into new high ground, and many minor shares were also quoted at record prices. Favourable developments in the industrial and monetary conditions continued to attract outside buyers, and aggressive forward movements were stayed for many stocks, there being a general rise of 1 to 3 points. The market closed strong.

RUBBER—First latex crepe, 14¼c.; smoked ribbed sheets, 14¼c.

SUGAR—Market closed.

COTTON opened firm at 12 to 28 points advance, and kept up for a while, owing to firm cable advices, buying for foreign interests, official reports of too much rain in the Atlantic States, a better public inquiry, and adverse private crop accounts. A reaction set in later on Southern operators and foreign interests selling, bulls unloading, and reactionary selling; but the market partially rallied under short covering, and closed steady, although 16 to 4 points down. Spot quiet and unchanged. New Orleans spot unaltered. The National Ginners' Association estimate the condition of the crop at 72.1 per cent.; Miss Giles's estimate is 67.9 per cent. Receipts—Atlantic 6,000, Gulf 5,000. Exports—Britain nil, Continent 15,000. May, unquoted; June, 20.69; July, 20.89; August, 20.85; September, 20.55; October, 20.47; November, 20.39; December, 20.30; January, 20.15; February, 20.06; March, 19.98; April, unquoted.

CHICAGO, Monday.

To-morrow being Decoration Day, the Board of Trade will be closed.

WHEAT opened steady, ⅛c. up to unchanged, on covering and commission house buying; but soon declined on a slow cash demand, favourable South-West crop reports, weaker outside markets, bearish Liverpool cables, larger country offerings, elevator interests selling, and realising. July contracts were also being liquidated, and the market closed easy at 5¼c. to 2¼c. decline. Spot easy. No. 2 hard winter, spot, 135¼; No. 3 hard winter, spot, 121¼. May, 118¾; July, 118¾; September, 116¾.

CORN opened steady and unchanged to ⅛c. down, and went lower under predicted larger receipts, the break in wheat, favourable crop reports, a slow cash inquiry, and selling by cash, commission, and Armour interests. The market closed easy at ⅞c. to 1⅛c. less. No. 2 mixed, spot, 60¼. May, 59¼; July, 61⅞; September, 64¼.

OATS easy, ⅛c. down to ⅛c. up. May, 36¼; July, 37¾; September, 39¼.

I.A.A.A. CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Arrangements for this important meeting, to be held at Lansdowne road on Whit Monday, are well advanced, and if the present fine weather continues the meeting should be most successful. All the leading Dublin schools have entered for the school events, and with competitors coming from Cavan, Drogheda, Nenagh, Belfast, etc., the competition for Cup presented by Mr. Frank Wynne should be very keen. With a few exceptions all the holders of Open Championships will defend their titles. Many prominent athletes who have not previously competed in championships will also take part, including Johnston (Queen's University), Ogle (the Duncairn crack), Gilmore (Belfast), P. J. Sauners (Birchfield Harriers), J. A. Kyle (Liverpool Pembroke), Ian Stuart (Dublin University), R. R. Woods (winner of English Schools' Championship last year), etc. St. James's Brass Band has been engaged, and will perform a selection of music.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES.

IRISH STOCK EXCHANGES.

DUBLIN.

FIRM MARKETS. FAIRLY GENERAL STRENGTH IN HOME RAILS. DUNLOP RUBBERS STRONG.

The only feature of interest on 'Change was the strong English bidding for Dunlop Rubber Ord. shares, presumably on further support induced by the recent addition to the board, and at the later market further underlying strength was available. It is well to realise that the effect of the £8,300,000 loss up to August last, plus the further loss on current and accruing contracts for rubber, etc., involving many more millions, has yet to be adjusted by a drastic writing down of the Ord. share capital, which figures for £15,000,000. Until this is done no dividends can be paid on even the £5,000,000 Pref. capital, on which nearly two years' arrears are due. The company's year will end on 31st August, or three months hence. The price of plantation rubber has fallen further since the last balance sheet, but against this general trading conditions are not unfavourable.

The unhappy and disturbed state of the country still naturally acted as a deterrent to business briskness on the Stock Exchange, but prices continue to hold up well in the hope that when things are at their worst they may mend. The Funds were firmer, outside of Consols, which fell back. Irish Land and India Stock rose, and War Fives held firm. Banks were dull and easier in a poor market. Dublin Distillers and Guinness Pref. were both better. Grand Canal Ord. closed flat in a nominal market. There was a wonderfully firm Home Railway market, with a general rise in nearly all leading Ord. Stocks. Great Northern rallied ½ and Great Southern 1½ to 58 and 58½ 58 respectively. It is not long since there was a difference of close to 10 points in favour of the former, but the amalgamation with the Bandon line by the latter company has induced strong support. Bolands Pref. rose sharply. Textiles were all a further shade harder. Tobaccos were steady and Oils disappointing.

The Funds were higher on balance. War Loan 5 p.c. repeated 99½, and then fell to 99⅜, but the "Deed" Stock rose ⅛ to 99⅞ ¾. Irish Land 3 p.c. 1/16 to 66 1/16, and India 3½ p.c. ⅛ to 68⅞. Guaranteed Land 2¾ p.c. repeated 60¼. Corporation, etc., issues were unaltered.

Banks closed dull, with business mainly in small lots. Bank Stock fell ½ to 224, Hibernians ¼ to 5½, and Munsters 1/16 to 6 13/16 6¾, while Nationals at 17¼ show no alteration.

Grand Canal Ord. fell 5s. to 50s. 55s. nominally.

Marconi Ord. remain at 55s. 9d. Canadians realised 12s. 9d., Radio Common 24s. 3d., and the Preferred 15s. 4½d.

Home Railway Ord. were again good. Dublin and South-Eastern rose ½ to 18 18½. Great Northern ½ to 58, Great Southern 1½ to 58½, and later eased to 58; Midland Great Western ⅝ to 28¾ 29, and the 4 p.c. Rent Charge Guaranteed 1 to 57. Other issues quoted show no change.

In Bakery issues Bolands Pref. rose ½ to 6 for an odd lot.

Drapery shares were almost neglected. Crowe Wilson Ord. repeated 21s.

As regards Manufacturing shares, Textiles were generally in request and higher. Bleachers rose 6d. to 35s. 9d., Coats 3d. to 63s. 3d., ditto "B" Pref. 1s. 1½d. to 25s. 4½d., and Cottons 1½d. to 44s. 9d. 44s. 10½d. 44s. 9d., while Spinners fell 3d. to 39s. 3d. British-American Tobacco repeated 79s. 3d. and Imperial 60s. 1½d. Lever Bros. were practically unaltered at 20s. for both the 7 and 8 p.c. Pref. issues. Gouldings closed unchanged.

There was no alteration in Trading or Miscellaneous securities, which were practically stagnant.

Other business included Dunlop Rubber at 8s. 10d. 9s., and afterwards at 9s. 1½d. 9s. 3d. buyers, on support from other side. Courtaulds fell 7½d. to 51s. 10½d. Lever Bros. 5 p.c. Debs. rose ¼ to 1½ discount on the issue price. Mexican Eagle Oil fell to 70s. 7½d. 70s., and Shells were dull at 5¼.

IDLE STOCKS.

HOME RAILS STRONG.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT AND THE "FINANCIAL NEWS" OF TO-DAY.)

Despite a firm general tendency, yesterday was one of the idlest days which the Stock Exchange has known for a very considerable time. Very little was doing in the Gilt-edged market, and such changes in price as were recorded were mainly in the easier direction. On the whole this market was steady, as was also the case with Colonial securities, although Calcuttas lost ⅜ at ½ premium. The outstanding feature was the strength of Home Rails, and particularly of the "heavies," North-Easterns and Great Westerns each putting on a point and a half, and North Westerns rising 2½, while Midland Deferred gained a point. Great Centrals were also sought after, the 1894 Prefs. advancing 4 points to 61½.

LONDON STOCKS QUIETLY FIRM.

FIRST CARRY-OVER SINCE 1914.

The Stock markets were fairly firm, but business was not at all bright. The event of the day, however, was the inauguration of fortnightly settlements—the first since August, 1914—which began with the arrangement of the account in mines. This proved to be a very small affair, but was not without some slight technical difficulties owing to its novelty. The average contango rate on the best Kaffirs was from 5 to 6 p.c., up to 7 p.c. being paid on others. Gilt-edged Securities were very quiet, and the only change was a fall of ⅛ to 99⅞ in 5 p.c. War Loan.

FOREIGN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES were good on the improved situation regarding German reparations. French Bonds were steady, but unchanged. Argentines of 1907 rose 1 to 88½.

The advance in HOME RAILWAYS continued, and many fresh improvements were recorded.

In COLONIAL and FOREIGN RAILWAYS there was only one bright spot. Mexican National 1st Pref. rose 2 to 16, while the 2nd Pref. rose 1½ to 7½. Argentines were dull and each lost ½.

RUBBER SHARES WEAK.

The Rubber share market continued flat, and many declines took place on the day. Anglo-Sumatra fell 2s. 6d. to 35s., Batu Caves 2s. 6d. to 12s. 6d., Pataling fell 1s. 9d. to 18s., Malacca Ord. 1s. 3d. to 32s. 6d., and Labu 1s. 3d. to 21s. 3d. The only gain worth mentioning was one of 7½d. in Anglo-Malay to 16s. 10½d. The price of rubber rose to 7½d. per lb. Closing prices:—

OIL SHARES SMALL.

THE COMING ACCOUNT.

Oil shares commenced the week in quiet fashion, business in all but a few specialities being on an extremely small scale, while, with the carry-over in progress to-day and Derby Day to-morrow, it would appear most unlikely that the next few days will witness any appreciable increase in the volume of transactions. The account now in course of settlement is expected to reveal only a small open position, and should be arranged without difficulty. Prices came over firm from New York, and consequently the leading issues made a steady start, but business came along very slowly, there being only a small accumulation of orders over the week-end, and while Royal Dutch made some display of firmness, an advance being finally recorded, shrinkages occurred in Shells, Mexican Eagles, and Burmahs. Interest in certain of the speculative favourites was well maintained, V.O.C. Holdings continuing in good demand, changing hands freely and registering a further gain at the close, and among Rumanians, Rumanian Consols again met with a good deal of attention. Closing prices:—

LONDON MINING MARKET.

THE FIRST CARRY-OVER.

Eight years ago the arrangement of a Mining carry-over was quite an ordinary event. Rates and the state of the account were then simply matters of routine. Yesterday the fixing of making-up prices and the details in connection therewith almost entirely monopolised attention and discussion. As a matter of fact, there was very little to arrange, but as regards Kaffirs, where accommodation was required little difficulty was experienced in obtaining it. The usual rate on these descriptions was 5 to 7 p.c., but there were more "takers-in" than "givers-on." Under the old conditions this would have been taken to indicate the existence of a bear account, but on the present occasion it means that dealers with shares on their hands—"in the box" is the usual term—sold them towards the end of last week, and were quite willing to take them in at the rates ruling. Incidentally such professional character tended to check any advance in prices. There was very little dealing for new time, buyers and sellers being equally diffident, so that on the day changes were slight and irregular in character. The cabled summaries of the proceedings at the annual meeting in Johannesburg of several of the leading companies created a favourable impression, and the news that the 70,000 City Deep enemy shares are to be cancelled may have accounted for the difficulty in obtaining carry-over facilities for these shares. Johannesburg was reported steady, but little support was forthcoming from that quarter, while Paris, being occupied with the monthly settlement there, was also content to look on. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Confidence in the stability of copper prices is slowly returning, and the market for the metal is certainly stronger than it has been for some time. On the metal exchange a feeling approaching optimism prevails, for it is argued that consumption must increase. One reason previously emphasised here is that the market has been cleared of war scrap. Nothing spectacular by way of a rise in prices is anticipated, but the confidence in the stability of quotations will be invaluable according to the "Engineer," which further points out:—At the present moment there is no doubt that the rate of consumption has overtaken the rate of production, so that the tendency is towards the reduction of stocks.

The total gold output of companies making returns to the Rhodesian Chamber of Mines at Bulawayo for the month of April amounts to 54,318 ounces. The number of producers was 175. The value of the gold declared is £255,391, as compared with £257,356 for the previous month, and £282,396 for the corresponding period of 1921.

At a meeting of the Council of the Rubber Growers' Association, held yesterday, the following resolution was passed:—"That this Council is of the opinion that no scheme of restriction which has not the cordial co-operation of the Dutch interests can be recommended to the members of this Association, but that, pending the completion of the negotiations which, the Council understand, are now proceeding with the Dutch interests, the further consideration of this matter be deferred till the next meeting."

£10,000 FOR A PIER IN SLIGO.

The Sligo County Council has passed a resolution asking Dail Eireann to earmark £10,000 for a pier at Magherow to enable the fishermen of the district to carry on their industry. It was pointed out that Scotch and English boats were fishing there, while distress was acute amongst the fisher people for want of facilities.

THE MONEY MARKET.

DISCOUNTS VERY FIRM.

EXCHANGES IMPROVE.

Although maturities were small and there was window-dressing in progress, the position of money was not so uncomfortable yesterday as had been expected. Borrowers were paying up to 2½ p.c. for night accommodation, but it was to be obtained down to 2 p.c. Fixtures were going on at 2½, with new money 2¼ over the turn of the month. As regards Stock Exchange money, the charge for this will be decided to-day. Business was exceedingly flat in discounts, but owing to the uncertainty regarding money the tendency was distinctly firm. Second-hand Treasury bills were offering at almost 2⅝ p.c., without interesting buyers, whilst ordinary fine three months' paper was virtually 2⅝ p.c.

The favourable attitude of the German Government towards the reparation question was reflected in a further improvement in foreign exchanges, more particularly in marks, which rallied to 1,210, reacting to 1,235. Francs were also better at 48.70 to 48.75, Belgian being 52.57 to 52.62. Sterling was well maintained on New York around 4.45 dollars. Dutch florins further appreciated to 11.40. Austrian crowns further slumped to 45,000 to 47,000, and Polish marks were 17,750 to 18,500. The following are closing rates:—

INDUSTRIALS GOOD.

RISE IN DUNLOPS.

Although few features of interest developed in the Miscellaneous and Industrial markets yesterday, a fair amount of business was put through, while dealings for "new time" were on a larger scale than had been anticipated. Among Miscellaneous trading concerns interest chiefly centred in Dunlops, which met with good support.

Dunlops closed 1s. 1½d. higher on the day at 9s. 7½d. Elsewhere in the Miscellaneous list Cements eased to 15s. but the Prefs. strengthened to 16s. 9d. British Portlands continued at 23s. 6d. Nelson Bros. hardened to 1⅛ ex-div. Timber Fireproofing rose ⅛ to 3⅛, and Arghan Co. 3d. to 6s. 9d. De Treys fell 6d. to 15s. Among Motors, Rolls Royce stiffened to 1 1/16. Among Land Shares, Bays relapsed to 6⅛, but British North Borneos put on 6d. to 12s. 6d., and Yang-Tse Corporation gained the turn at 6s. 4½d. Duff Devs improved to 5s. 6d. The tax free Prefs. were maintained at 15s. 9d. B.S.A. hardened to 10s. 9d., and Swan Hunters gained 1/16 at 1 1/16. Guest Keens eased to 34s., and Chinese Engineering lost ⅛ at 3⅞. Powell Duffryns were scarcely so good among Coal Stocks at 39s. 3d. In the Brewery section, Watney Combes rose 2 points to 180½, but Cannon Pref. lost ⅛ at 6⅛, and Walker-Cains 3d. at 17s. 9d. Maypoles lost the turn at 5s. 10½d., and Bovrils receded to 195. Among Nitrates, Aguas Blancas gained 9d. at 1 1/16 ex-div., but Tarapacas lost 1s. at 12s., and Anglo-Chilians ⅛ at 2⅛ ex-div. Whitehall Electric Investment Debs. rose ⅛ to 88 among Trust and Finance descriptions, while the Prefs. kept steady at 18s. 6d.

TEXTILES WEAK.

In the Textile section Listers suffered a setback to 25s. 9d., or 1s. lower on balance. Courtaulds lost 4½d. at 51s. 4½d., and Dye Stuffs and the Prefs. weakened to 3s. 9d. and 1/16 respectively. National of Egypt lost ⅛ at 19⅛, and Barclays "A" and L.C.W. and Parrs 1/16 each at 7⅛ and 17 1/16 respectively.

LONDON METALS MARKET.

TIN—Market ruled stronger, with a moderate inquiry and sellers reserved. On balance prices were about 12/6 per ton higher against the close of Friday. Cash quoted £151 to £151 5/6, three months £152 to £152 7/6; settlement price £151. Sales, 375 tons; cash done £150 15/- to £151 5/-, two months £152, three months £152 to £152 10/-, and finally £152 7/6. COPPER slightly dearer, with a fair demand. COMPANY MEETINGS.

BRITISH AND IRISH STEAM PACKET COMPANY, LTD.

The annual meeting of shareholders of the British and Irish Steam Packet Company, Limited, was held on the afternoon of Monday, 29th May.

The Secretary (Mr. J. W. Ratledge) having read the notice convening the meeting and the auditors' report, Sir Owen Philipps, G.C.M.G. (the Chairman), said:—This old Dublin business was registered as a limited company forty-three years ago, and it is exactly double that period—viz., eighty-six years—since it was founded in 1836. The company has been engaged ever since in providing facilities for the carriage of passengers and goods and cattle between Ireland and Great Britain.

The Ordinary and Preference share capital and reserves of the company now amount to over three million pounds sterling. It has been my consistent aim, and that of your Board, to maintain and develop the company's business, and to provide ample and up-to-date facilities for our cross-Channel services.

The new steamer, Lady Valentia, was delivered to us by the builders on 19th November last, since which time she has been successfully employed in the Dublin/London trade. Two up-to-date, specially designed passenger and live stock vessels are at present under construction at Ardrossan for our Dublin and Mersey trades. These will probably be completed towards the end of the year.

The results of the past year's operations have, on the whole, been fairly satisfactory. The practice of your directors to write off depreciation at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum from the cost of every ship has been continued, whilst the company's property has also been written down in our books.

During the year under review the company's trades have been carried on in circumstances of great difficulty, our operations having been again restricted by labour troubles and various other factors, which has involved loss of income to the company.

The Irish cattle trade has passed through a very adverse period owing to the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in England, which has been the most serious for the past forty years, with the result that the number of stock carried has been diminished.

This important industry forms a big commercial link between the two countries, and anything adversely affecting it on either side is prejudicial not only to this company, but to the interests of all those engaged in the business. As soon as conditions once more become favourable, there is no doubt this trade will receive an impetus, and we are making due preparations to meet any developments.

The unsettled condition of Ireland has also added to our difficulties, but I trust that, with the passage of time, the state of affairs in that country may improve and become more stabilised.

I would like again to place on record my appreciation, and that of my colleagues, of the loyal and efficient services rendered to the company by officials and staff, both afloat and ashore.

The Chairman then moved:—That the directors' report and statement of accounts for the twelve months ended 31st December, 1921, as now presented to the meeting, be, and are hereby, confirmed and adopted, and that a dividend at the rate of 5% per annum, less income tax, on the Ordinary shares for the year ended 31st December, 1921, be, and is hereby, declared; which was seconded by Viscount Pirrie, and carried unanimously.

On the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Sir Alfred Read, the retiring director (Mr. George N. Jacob, J.P.) was re-elected to the Board. Messrs. Stokes Brothers and Pim, of Dublin, were appointed auditors of the company for the ensuing year.

A vote of thanks to the Chairman terminated the meeting.

BOLANDS.

"DUMPING" OF ENGLISH FLOUR

The thirty-fourth annual ordinary general meeting of Bolands was held yesterday in the company's offices, Capel street. Mr. Thomas Sexton, Chairman of the company, presided, and the following directors were also present:—Messrs. S. R. Watson, Daniel J. O'Donohoe, and William Findlater.

Mr. William A. Ritchie, Secretary, read the notice convening the meeting and the auditors' report.

The Chairman said:—Last year was a year of transition, of changing over from control without competition to competition without control. The end of control was long expected; but when it did come, it came so abruptly—indeed, so suddenly—that it gave rise to much uncertainty and confusion. The company's bread trade, however, held its own; and there was a moderate surplus on the working of the year. The mills, too, did fairly well in the first quarter, and escaped loss to the end of the second quarter. But a new and over-ruling condition took effect about the middle of the year; and upon the second half of the year the mills, like Irish mills in general, showed a loss in working.

After a brief reference to the methods of English flour manufacturing and the effect of "dumping" in Ireland on Irish concerns, he asserted that the British manufacturer will dump in Ireland as long as the Irish people buy. But, after all, the Irish purchasers have the last word; and when they realise all that is at stake we can hardly doubt what they will do. Suppose this movement succeeds, what then? An Irish industry of some importance would shrink and disappear; a wide field of employment would be closed, and the Irish purchasers themselves, who might not have been careful or prudent enough at an early stage, would find their eyes quickly, and, perhaps, rudely, opened by the price lists that would, undoubtedly, be framed by the British speculator as soon as the Irish production was out of the way. What could be done with one Irish industry could be done with any or all of the few industries that peaceful penetration, as it has been called, from the further end of the Irish Sea has allowed, so far, to live in Ireland. It is not too soon for those who are commissioned or in any way concerned on behalf of the Irish people to consider and decide what measures, remedial or defensive, should be adopted in the general permanent interests of the country. In face of renewed competition we felt the necessity of providing that our products should be of as excellent quality as any coming into the market. The mills were specially overhauled; general renewals were executed on an extensive scale, and a certain amount of remodelling of equipment was installed—of course, more costly, more extensive, and more efficient in its effect upon both the quantity and the quality of products than what had gone before it. The reserve fund and the carry-over in a few years were trebled in amount, and, in addition, they received last year from the Ministry of Food £9,000—that is the company's share of a grant of a million and a half which was made by the Ministry to the milling industry of Great Britain and Ireland, partly as a contribution to renewal of plant and partly as a set-off against loss of remuneration last year by reason of the stoppage of control. The provision made was ample, as ample as could be made or expected in the case of any company. He doubted if mills in general were as well prepared for the shock of new competition as they were. They recommended a dividend of 5 per cent. on the Ordinary Shares. There is some reduction of the reserve fund and the carry-over. These funds were made for the express purpose of being reduced when proper occasions arise, and a proper occasion has arisen this year. The reserve fund and the carry-over will amount to over £30,000.

After a brief reference to the retirement of Mr. Solomons from the Board, the Chairman concluded by moving the adoption of the report and the accounts.

Mr. S. R. Watson seconded the motion, which, after a discussion, was adopted, and the dividends were approved.

The retiring directors were re-elected, and the usual votes of thanks were passed.

"GOOD WORK."

S.P.C.A. IN COUNTY WICKLOW.

Viscount Powerscourt, K.P., presided at the annual meeting of the North Wicklow Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, which was held in Bray Town Hall.

His Lordship commended the good work of the Society, whose report for the year 1921 was an excellent record. The Society closed its balance sheet with a credit balance of £86 10s., the largest sum yet reached. It was pointed out that the method of humane killing of animals was at a stand-still, and that the inspector was much hampered by not being allowed his captive bolt pistol. The late Mr. Wellington Darley, who felt deeply on the subject of humane killing, left the Society £100, which it was proposed to devote to this branch of the work.

Referring to the efficient work done by Inspectors John Anderson, Bray, and James Clifford, Wicklow, the report stated that the useless practice of sending anonymous complaints to the Society was deplored, as sufficient details were rarely given. Magistrates seemed to study what a delinquent could afford to pay, which was, of course, no punishment. In the Bray district Inspector Anderson issued 17 summonses, resulting in 12 fines; 32 cautions had been given by the inspector, and 14 caution notices were issued by the Committee. Inspector Clifford, in the Wicklow district, reported fewer cases than usual, owing to fewer animals being worked by reason of the slackness in trade; but three summonses had resulted in fines, and 65 cautions had been given.

The joint balance sheet for Wicklow, Bray, and Killiney showed an income of something over £200 for the year 1921. The report was adopted.

COUNTY COURT JUDGE'S PERMIT.

At the opening of the Boyle Quarter Sessions on Monday, two "Irregulars" of the I.R.A. entered, and informed Judge Wakely that he could not proceed with the business without permission from their headquarters. Judge Wakely, who remarked that the men ought to be in uniform, had to go with them to the Boyle barracks to get a permit from their leader, Colonel Pilkington. Subsequently his honour returned and resumed the business of the Court.

In the Austrian Parliament a Coalition has been formed between the Christian Socialist and Pan-German Parties. The Christian Socialist leader, Dr. Seipel, is likely to become the Chancellor to replace Herr Schober.

CATTLE.

GLASGOW, Monday.—Messrs. Hegarty and Kelly report a fair show of Irish cattle at Merklands to-day (Monday). There was a good demand for all classes at late rates. Sheep and lambs met a good inquiry, and made satisfactory prices.—(Advt.)

HULL, Monday.—Supplies small, and trade firm, except for lambs, which showed a decline in price from 1s. 9d. to 1s. 9d. per lb., best beef making 10s., secondary 14/-, cows 12/- per stone. Young sheep 2/-, ewes 1/- per lb. Small pigs 14/- to 15/-, per stone. Bacon pigs 16/- per stone.

BIRKENHEAD, Monday.—Supplies—650 cattle and 3,200 lambs. There was much worse trade for cattle to-day at lower prices for all classes. Average price for good bullocks and heifers was around 1/-; secondary sorts were moved with difficulty, at proportionately reduced figures. Cows and bulls were a bare trade, and clearance was not effected. Smaller supply of lambs was cleared at slight advance in rates for best sorts, which made up to 1/8 per lb., sinking offal. No improvement for secondary descriptions. At dressed best section trade was fair, sides making from 10½d. to 11½d. per lb. for best.

LEASEHOLD PREMISES,

27 LONGFORD TERRACE, MONKSTOWN.

VACANT POSSESSION TO PURCHASER.
Held for 99 years from 1861, subject to a rent of £10.

TO BE SOLD BY PUBLIC AUCTION AT JAMES ADAM AND SONS' ESTATE SALEROOMS, 17 MERRION ROW, DUBLIN
On MONDAY, 12th JUNE, 1922,
At the hour of One o'clock

The late Mr. Cook quite recently expended a large sum of money in putting the house into first-class structural and decorative repair—a purchaser need not have a penny outlay.

The accommodation consists of 3 floors, particularly suitable for Flats, with little or no outlay necessary for conversion. Already the top flat and the hall flat have been converted; baths, w.c.'s, and kitchenettes in each. Tenants were forthcoming for both, but the Executors have to Sell the House. The basement is particularly bright and wholesome, with abundant light and air, and would make a very good fourth flat dwelling.

There is a nicely laid out garden, with coach-house or garage and living rooms, good enclosed concrete-floored yard, and entrance to main road tram line.

The House looks directly on to the Salthill Hotel grounds and across Dublin Bay to Hill of Howth.

For further particulars and Conditions of Sale apply to McMAHON and TWEEDY, 13 Hume street, Solicitors for Vendors; or to
